

BIG OHIO PRISON RIOT PUT DOWN

Convicts Bow To Ultimatum By Stevenson

Hostages Released After Show Of Force

CHESTER, Ill., Oct. 31 (AP)—A four-day rebellion by convicts at Menard State Prison was put down today by an action-packed display of force and an ultimatum delivered at the direction of Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

The capitulation by the 339 mutinous convicts came at 10:47 a. m. (CST) as 120 heavily-armed state policemen advanced on the east cell block's two entrances.

Seven hostage guards, without food for nearly five days, staggered from the cell house, one or two at a time.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, had broken off his campaign tour of the East for a dramatic night flight to Illinois.

"It was my personal decision," Stevenson said, to make the ultimatum. Stevenson decided to break off his campaigning in the final week before the election, he said, because the uprising "was my responsibility."

One Convict Shot

One convict was shot but not seriously wounded.

Previous efforts by other officials, including Lt. Gov. Sherwood Dixon, to negotiate a settlement had failed.

When order had been restored, Dixon said the rebellion had been ended with the state under no obligation to negotiate with the convicts.

Stevenson left for New York immediately after the convicts had surrendered.

Gov. Stevenson, tired and unsmiling, walked into the prison yard with other officials at 10:08 a. m. (CST). A loudspeaker had been set up, and Michael Seyfridt, state director of public safety, read to the convicts the ultimatum prepared earlier by officials in consultation with Stevenson.

Shots Fired As Warnings

In it, Seyfridt called for immediate release of the hostages, warned that armed state police would enter the cell block immediately and "will use any force necessary to restore order."

He repeated his message, then the prison's low pitched siren was turned on.

State Police Capt. Herman Nofs shouted "Go get 'em!"

Three or four shots rang out, fired at the cell house ceiling as warnings as the troopers moved in, armed with Tommy guns and other small arms.

"Release those guards and do it immediately," Capt. Nofs yelled. "Otherwise we are coming in. And it won't be funny if we come in."

There was a stir of activity from inside. A chain rattled.

"Hold it—don't shoot!" Capt. Nofs ordered.

Out came the hostages.

Bolivia Nationalizes Big Three Tin Firms

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Oct. 31 (AP)—The revolutionary government nationalized the big three tin producing companies of Bolivia today under a decree implying there may be no payment for stockholders.

President Victor Paz Estenssoro, the tin miners' idol, signed the decree taking over the properties of the Patino, Hochschild and Aramayo Companies in a ceremony before 30,000 cheering miners at Catavi, one of Patino's biggest holdings.

A third of the shares of these companies, which have accounted for about 75 per cent of Bolivia's tin exports, are estimated to be in the hands of United States investors.

Montreal Stores To Ignore Catholic Holy Day Ordinance

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 31 (AP)—A city ordinance ordering Montreal stores to close on Roman Catholic holy days will be largely ignored for the third time tomorrow, All Saints' Day.

Seven big department and jewelry stores, which won a court judgment against the ordinance July 17, announced they will remain open. Many smaller stores in this predominantly Catholic city of 1,650,000 are expected again to follow suit.

Although Superior Court Justice Albert I. Smith has ruled both the ordinance and a provincial statute on which it is based are invalid, the ordinance remains on the books pending hearing of an appeal by the city, perhaps in January.

So a special police detail of 100 men will operate again tomorrow in an effort to make cases against offenders. The standard penalty in the past has been a $40 fine.

The Montreal Council enacted the ordinance Nov. 2, 1951. All stores except restaurants, drug stores, food stores and cigar stores were ordered to close for the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, Ascension Day, All Saints' Day, Christmas, New Year's and Epiphany.

Counsel for the city argued in Superior Court that the ordinance was intended to give store employees additional days of rest.

Justice Smith, however, cited letters which had been sent to Mayor Camilleien Houde by Msgr. Paul-Emile Leger, Catholic archbishop of Montreal, and the Rev. Paul Gregoire, chaplain of the University of Montreal, as urgent appeals for enactment of the ordinance "purely and solely on the grounds of religion."

Adlai Winds Up Eastern Drive By Attacking Ike

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson finished his eastern campaigning before a wildly cheering Brooklyn crowd tonight with a blistering attack on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's pledge to go to Korea.

He called it a promise without a program.

The Democratic presidential nominee spoke in the Brooklyn Academy of Music—the traditional Democratic Friday-before-election sounding board.

Stevenson was hailed in both Republican Queens and heavily Democratic Brooklyn by lanes of cheering people. Lanes of red flares and bands on street corners along his route.

Says Ike Retreated On Pledge

The governor, referring to the Republican candidate's promise to go to Korea in an effort to end the Korean War, said the general had retreated even on the original promise.

He declared the general now was talking about going to Korea to "improve our position" rather than ending the war.

The original promise, Stevenson said, was an attempt to convince the American people there was an easy way out.

Stevenson spoke soon after his arrival by plane from Illinois where he had interrupted his campaigning to deal with rebellious prison inmates.

GOP Record One Of Negation

He said the opposition's record was one of negation.

Then he attacked Eisenhower directly as a conservative in the Midwest and a liberal in the East.

But the governor devoted most of his speech to rapping Eisenhower on what he called the general's shift on foreign policy from international cooperation to the old guard line.

He said Eisenhower had changed his position on aid to Europe and had shown disdain for the nation's Korean allies by saying "let Asians fight Asians."

This was the voice of isolationism, Stevenson said, declaring the general had "chaned his tune" to win isolationist support.

Angler Catches Two-Ton Whale On Boat Anchor

EASTBOURNE, England, Oct. 31 (AP)—Fisherman Vivian Gail was standing on the beach near here today when he saw a big fin. He hurried the line at it for fun. All he had on the business end was a row-boat anchor.

The next second the 42-year-old Gail was fighting for his life—but with the help of bystanders managed to haul the catch ashore.

Two tons of violently indignant whale.

The anchor had hooked itself into the whale's mouth.

Pacific Army Leader Backs Up Eisenhower

HONOLULU, Oct. 31 (AP)—Lt. Gen. John W. O'Donnell, commander of U. S. Army forces in the Pacific, said last night "I think there's a lot to be said to support the idea of 10 more (South Korean) divisions, like Ike said."

O'Donnell, who commanded the First Corps in Korea during some of the heaviest fighting before taking the Army command here, offered the comment as "my personal opinion" in a talk to the Reserve Officers Association of Hawaii.

The general apparently was referring to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's reference Wednesday to a letter written by Gen. James A. Van Fleet.

The Republican presidential candidate used the letter to support his argument that Koreans should be trained quickly so they can carry the brunt of the fighting.

16 Oregon Convicts Stage Hunger Strike

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 31 (AP)—Sixteen convicts in the state prison segregation unit here went on a hunger strike last night and Deputy Warden Lawrence O'Brien said today "it looks as though we will have to starve them out."

O'Brien said the unit—a group of cells within one of the prison buildings—was under close guard and no serious trouble was expected.

The men are out in a corridor and O'Brien said they'd have to go back into their cells before any food would be given them.

Three of the men in segregation are under death sentence.

The trouble started, O'Brien said, because macaroni and cheese substituted for potatoes twice yesterday.

Reds Hold Crest Of Triangle Hill As Fight Slackens

SEOUL, Saturday, Nov. 1 (AP)—The bitter battle of Triangle Hill on the Korean Central Front slackened Friday night but Chinese Red troops still menaced Allied control of the whole sector.

The Chinese clung to the crest after the bloodiest day since fighting began 19 days ago.

Allied infantrymen withdrew at dusk from the 2,000-foot height after nearly 24 hours of swaying battle in which three South Korean companies stayed and died, preventing a Red breakthrough.

Other Allied troops held fast to Pinpoint Hill, the pinnacle of Sniper Ridge.

Artillery Fire Slackens

The Red grip on Triangle Hill may be only a temporary one, but it threatened the whole Allied position on the heights north of Kumhwa, and brought the road hub leading south towards Seoul under the guns of the Communists.

AP Correspondent John Randolph on the front reported hundreds of Allied and Communist artillery and mortar pieces eased fire Friday night after three days of tremendous barrages. Tens of thousands of shells had ripped into the red clay and granite slopes of Triangle and Sniper Ridge.

The battle for the two Central Front ridges has cost the Chinese more than 11,000 killed and wounded since Oct. 14, by Eighth Army headquarters estimate. Allied casualties were not given but also were heavy.

Rain Hampers Air Support

It was the longest sustained battle since Heartbreak Ridge one year ago and now rivals in ferocity the recent action at White Horse Mountain, some 20 miles westward.

A chilling rain fell Friday, hampering Allied air support.

The weather brought no relief to the infantrymen, however. The muddy, red clay peak of Triangle changed hands at least three times and probably more. The Chinese assaulted in battalion (750 men) sized waves. Allied artillery and infantry poured a curtain of fire on their charging ranks.

Mrs. FDR In Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived today by plane to represent President Truman at the inauguration of Gen. Carlos Ibanez as president of Chile Monday.

Colorful Railroader Saves The Day

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—Big Bill Murphy, one of the most colorful characters on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was credited with saving lives when the Stevenson campaign special stopped in Silver Spring today.

Four or five persons were slightly hurt when the train backed down on the crowd.

Murphy scrambled under the rear car when he saw what was happening and pulled a brake valve which stopped the train.

Murphy is superintendent of the B & O's Baltimore division. He is a big hulk of a red-faced Irishman, weighing at least 215. He's as rough

Demo Charges "Pure Bunk," General Says

Asserts Foes Know He Hasn't Changed

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared tonight that President Truman and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson—he labeled them "my Siamese twin opponents"—have assailed him with "the greatest collection of film-flaming accusations made in any campaign."

Invading the home state of Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, Eisenhower said in an address prepared for delivery at Chicago Stadium:

"At first glance, you might find hard to understand the furious assaults of my Siamese twin opponents. After all, four years ago, I was besieged publicly and privately by important members of the administration party to accept the nomination for the presidency on their ticket."

Campaign Hits 'Sensitive Nerve'

"In these past four years, I could not possibly have changed so completely as to give real cause for their shift from ardent coaxing to violent condemnation."

"But you know the answer to their strange and unhappy behavior! Our campaign has touched them where it hurts—has touched them on the sensitive nerve which registers defeat for them next Tuesday."

The Republican presidential nominee flew into Chicago shortly after noon in a stretch drive to capture Illinois' 27 electoral votes for the Republicans.

On his way into downtown Chicago, where he got a warm welcome from thousands who banked the streets in the Loop area Eisenhower stopped for a brief speech at suburban Cicero.

Demo Charge "Pure Bunk"

He declared there that the Democrats are saying that America's fiscal policy is dictated by the Kremlin. He called that "pure bunk."

In his speech tonight, Eisenhower hammered at the same theme he emphasized last night in a New York address at Madison Square Garden—that Truman and Stevenson are waging a campaign of vilification against him.

"This has been some campaign," Eisenhower declared. "The President incumbent, Truman, and his proteges, have assailed me with the greatest collection of film-flaming accusations made in any campaign. In case you have any doubt, the opposition is being directed by the senior member of that partnership."

He held a back platform crowd in Manly, Ia., the other morning, that he was the man who was running the Democrat campaign for president.

Dixie Crosby Received Into Catholic Church

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 31 (AP)—Dixie Lee Crosby, 40-year-old wife of Bing Crosby, has been received into the Roman Catholic Church, it was disclosed today.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick Concannon said he baptized Mrs. Crosby Monday, the day before she sank into a coma. She has since received the sacraments of the Catholic church, including extreme unction—the last.

"She had asked to be baptized many months ago," Msgr. Concannon reported. "The intention has always been there."

Msgr. Concannon is pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd here, home parish of many Catholic movie stars, including Crosby.

18 Perish In Missouri Nursing Home Blaze

At Least 36 Other Patients Injured

HILLSBORO, Mo., Oct. 31 (AP)—Fire swept through a three-story nursing home for aged persons tonight, killing 18 and injuring at least 36 others.

The dead and injured were patients living on the second and third floors of the stone structure on the edge of Hillsboro.

Fire Chief Richard King said the blaze apparently started in a men's washroom on the first floor about 5:45 p. m. (CST).

It spread rapidly up stairways and through corridors, trapping many of the victims. Sixteen of the bodies were recovered by firemen after the blaze was brought under control.

Two others, who may have been injured when they were put into ambulances, were pronounced dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital, about 33 miles north of the scene.

There were more than 100 elderly patients in the building when the fire started. Nursing home spokesmen said they have been unable to account for all the patients as ambulances took both injured and uninjured to other nursing homes and hospitals in the St. Louis area.

Chief King said he was unable to make an immediate estimate of the damage. An inquest was set by Dr. Thomas Dobbins, director of the Jefferson County Health Department, for tomorrow.

Most of the damage was to the upper stories.

Fire departments from Festus and De Soto helped fight the blaze which was put out about three and a half hours after it started.

Local firemen and residents were fighting a series of weed and brush fires when the nursing home fire broke out.

Truman Charges Ike Is Smearing Top Military Men

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31 (AP)—President Truman today accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower of "impugning the character and patriotism" of former military comrades in a desperate attempt to convince the voters he can speed up the return of American soldiers from Korea.

He attributed this motive to the GOP presidential nominee in Eisenhower's use in the campaign of a personal letter from Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commanding general in Korea, recommending that the number of South Korean divisions be doubled.

And, in his most bitter criticism to date of GOP Vice Presidential Nominee Richard M. Nixon, Truman said the senator has "an unsavory financial record" and a "reactionary voting record."

This was an obvious reference to Nixon's senatorial expense fund about which the Californian addressed the nation by radio and television.

Truman said Gen. Mark Clark has stepped up the expansion of the South Korean Army and that his recommendations for increasing the number of divisions "have been approved."

"Yet, in his desperate attempt to get votes, the Republican candidate," Truman said, would have the people believe that his former comrades "are just not interested in saving the lives of American boys by building up the South Korean Army."

Truman named these men as Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, now NATO supreme commander; Gen. Clark, Far Eastern commander; Gen. Hoyt W. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff; Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Adm. William P. Feltcheier, chief of naval operations; Gen. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff; Sec. of Defense Robert Lovett, and Sec. of the Army Frank Pace.

Truman said that the Republicans are conducting "one of the most expensive campaigns in history" and that it resembles a "soap-selling drive."

And, he said, Eisenhower is peddling a "new patent medicine" by trying to promise he can bring the troops home sooner than anyone else.

Van Fleet's Wife Gave Ike Permission To Use Letter

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31 (AP)—The wife of Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today she gave Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower permission to use a letter in which Van Fleet wrote that he had been unable to win approval for an increase of two divisions or more in South Korean forces.

In an interview on her arrival here, Mrs. Van Fleet "without hesitation gave the answers as to how Eisenhower, the Republican nominee for president, obtained the letter and permission for its use in a campaign speech."

"He had that letter for five days but he wouldn't use it until he talked with me personally," said Mrs. Van Fleet. "He told me 'I wouldn't want to hurt Van for anything in the world.'"

She added that her husband and Eisenhower are longtime friends.

"I didn't want to see Ike defeated by lies," added Mrs. Van Fleet. "I gave him permission to use it."

The Van Fleet letter, dated Oct. 20, was addressed to Maj. Gen. Orlando C. Moad, Van Fleet's former chief of staff now in Washington, with a copy to Mrs. Van Fleet. The letter said that South Korean forces are now in "apple pie" order but that this far be, Van Fleet, had been unable to win approval of his plan to increase their strength by two divisions or more.

Eight Buildings Burned Before Revolt Quelled

Dozen Knife-Toting Die-Hards Give Up

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31 (AP)—Rioting convicts at burned and battered Ohio Penitentiary returned to their cells tonight, virtually putting an end to the million-dollar Halloween rebellion that sent eight prison buildings up in flames.

A handful of the "bad food" rioters remained out of their cells at 10 p. m. (EST), but a prison spokesman said "it's as much under control as it can be tonight."

The men returned ahead of a scheduled big push by 800 Ohio National Guardsmen.

The guardsmen were mobilizing outside the prison when a dozen die-hard prisoners armed with knives gave up and allowed their fellow inmates to return to the cell-blocks.

Maury Koblenz, assistant commissioner of corrections, said 100 prisoners still milled about the prison courtyard. But they weren't offering any particular resistance to orders.

No Convicts Shot

National Guardsmen were held outside in readiness at the first sign of trouble.

Koblenz said reports that three convicts were shot during the height of the uprising in the century-old prison were false.

"No convicts were shot," he said. Warden Ralph W. Alvis told newsmen that no guard had been held hostage.

Both stories gained official credence during the excitement of the riot.

The prison hospital, the woolen mill and the knitting mill burned, along with other major buildings. Convicts smashed stained glass windows in the Catholic chapel before they set it afire.

The hospital and commissary buildings were reported to be total losses. Part of the chapel seemed to be safe after firemen brought the flames under control.

Twelve men lodged in "The Hole" in the basement of the commissary building were rushed to safety while flames bit their way through the building, they were not hurt.

Typical Movie Scene

The convicts began their costly mutiny at dinner time in the mess hall. There was the scene the movies have done so many times—a rhetorical beating of plates with spoons, a dumping of food on the floor. Two thousand men joined the riot then, smashing equipment and just about ruining the mess hall.

For awhile after that—early in the evening before dark—guards thought they had controlled the riot.

Eight hundred of the original 2,000 went back to their cells. The prison holds more than 4,000 convicts. This meant more than half were under lock.

But the 1,200—maddened by the ravings of a group of leaders—burst into the final orgy. One by one, faced by fewer than two score guards, the convicts set fire to buildings, smashed windows and jeered.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis said the number of guards was the lowest of the day. The riot caught the guards completely by surprise.

Two Egg Splashes Mar Truman's Car

ABOARD TRUMAN SPECIAL, Oct. 31 (AP)—Two egg splashes marred the outside of President Truman's car as his whistle-stop train pulled into Hamilton on a swing across Ohio today.

One splash was at the front of the car and the other near the rear. The eggs apparently broke while the train was in motion.

'Coverup' Of Tax Case Involving Snyder Charged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—A Republican congressman said today revenue bureau documents will involve Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and other prominent Democrats in "highly suspicious activities" linked in a multi-million-dollar movie industry tax case.

His charges brought heated denials and counter-bluffs against what was called a political "last minute dirty deal."

The congressman, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, accused the Truman administration of an attempted "gross coverup" of the documents.

Indicates Cleanup "Sham"

Byrnes said Revenue Commissioner John E. Dunlap's role in the case disqualifies Dunlap from his job and "strongly indicates the much heralded cleanup of the Bureau of Internal Revenue is a sham and deceit on the American people."

Byrnes is a member of a House Ways and Means Subcommittee which has spotlighted a series of revenue bureau scandals.

Snyder and Dunlap in Seattle for ceremonies installing new tax officials, sharply denied the accusations and Snyder wired Chairman King (D-Calif.) of the subcommittee calling on him to stop what he called politically-inspired attacks.

Dunlap Ignored Subpoena

Chairman King and Rep. Kean of New Jersey, senior Republican member, said in a joint statement last night that Dunlap has ignored a subcommittee subpoena to produce documents in the case, first requested September 19.

They said Dunlap also refused to appear before a subcommittee meeting yesterday.

In Seattle, Dunlap denied ever receiving "a subpoena on any subject."

The papers involved are transcripts of telephone conversations by Charles Oliphant, former revenue bureau chief counsel, in a case involving a 20 million dollar tax refund request by Universal Pictures, Inc., in 1947.

The government awarded a refund of two million dollars, although a New York revenue agent recommended paying the full amount.

Ohio Prison Fire Recalls Holocaust In Which 320 Died

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31 (AP)—The flames skyrocketing from riot-stricken Ohio Penitentiary tonight recalled the holocaust of April 20, 1930, when 320 prisoners of the same prison died in a convict-set fire.

While no loss of life appeared imminent in the present blaze, veteran newsmen could not help but draw the parallel.

The 1930 fire at no time showed as many flames as the blaze which raged tonight.

The heavy loss of life in 1930 resulted from a failure to open cell block doors, thereby trapping hundreds of prisoners where they suffocated.

Gen. Eisenhower Wins Hood College Election

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower won 67 per cent of the student vote but faculty members and administrative personnel gave 65 per cent to Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson in Hood College's mock election today.

Eligibility to vote in the campus-wide balloting was determined by registration 10 days ago. Of the 444 students on the campus, 267 were eligible to vote and all but 57 actually cast ballots.

The turnout of faculty members registered was nearly 100 per cent, with 26 voting. However, only 28 of the 100 faculty members and all other administrative personnel had registered.

Students gave 151 votes to Eisenhower and 59 to Stevenson while the faculty voted 17 for Stevenson and 9 for Eisenhower.

NCEC Endorses 17 For Senate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The National Committee for an Effective Congress today endorsed as "most eminently qualified" 17 U. S. Senate candidates, 13 of them Democrats and four Republicans.

An announcement by Chairman Robert E. Sherwood, three-time winner of the Pulitzer drama prize said "the ethical standards and the tone and quality of the Congress will be elevated by the election of these 17 men."

The committee describes itself as a non-partisan group formed in 1948 whose sole aim is to "channel practical and direct support toward the election of qualified liberals to the national legislature."

Republican candidates who were endorsed were: Former Sen. John Sherman Cooper, Kentucky; former Gov. Dwight Griswold, Nebraska; Sen. Irving Ives, New York; Sen. Ralph Flanders, Vermont.

Democrats endorsed by the committee were: Sen. William Benton and Rep. Abraham Ribicoff, Connecticut; Sen. Dennis Chavez, New Mexico; Michael DiSalle, Ohio; Rep. Walter Granger, Utah; Thomas E. Fairchild, Wisconsin; Rep. Henry Jackson, Washington; Rep. Harley Kilgore, West Virginia; Rep. Mike Mansfield, Montana; Sen. Blair Moody, Michigan; Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney, Wyoming; Gov. Henry Schrickler, Indiana; Stuart Symington, Missouri.

Negro Farmer Wins Carnegie Hero Medal

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31 (AP)—A 67-year-old Negro farmer who lived through six hours of nightmare to rescue a younger man buried in a 42-foot well won a Carnegie Hero Fund silver medal today.

It was the only silver award given. Thirty four other persons received bronze medals from the Carnegie Hero Fund, founded many years ago by the late Andrew Carnegie, Pittsburgh steel-master.

Three of the heroes lost their lives. Pensions totalling $1,740 a year were granted in two cases. Awards totalling $13,800 were made in 31 cases for educational and similar purposes.

The farmer hero was David Andrews of Snow Hill, Ala., who rescued 34-year-old John F. Bell.

Five Mental Patients Flee Ohio Hospital

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31 (AP)—Five inmates of Longview State Hospital escaped this evening from the institution's violent ward. One man was said to be dangerous and armed with a knife.

The escape came at a particularly bad time: President Truman is in Cincinnati to deliver a major speech and it is Halloween night.

The hospital supervisors, Albert

Noel, told Sgt. Charles Black all of the escapees had records with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

U. Of Md. Temporarily Bans Mailing Lists To Outsiders

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Board of Regents today banned the use of mailing lists and mailing facilities at the University of Maryland by outsiders.

The ruling itself is only temporary. It will remain in force pending a study of the problem and an adoption of final policy.

The university has been under criticism because its mailing lists, staff, and equipment were used to send out 22,000 pieces of Democratic campaign literature.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university, said the Democrats paid for the service.

A resolution adopted by the regents today said, even so, it was "a situation damaging to the university."

The resolution went on to direct that the facilities shall be used only by those connected directly with or a part of the university.

Judge William P. Cole, chairman of the regents, started the action by submitting a resolution which would have prohibited use of the mailing service by any agency not

Civil Defense Equipment To Be Distributed In County

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday were notified by William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense, that distribution of fire fighting equipment and other CD materials is underway.

Four 60-pound pressure portable fire pumps equipped with 150 feet of one and one-half inch hose will be allocated among the following volunteer fire companies. Potomac Fire Company at Westernport, Bedford Road Fire Company, Midland Fire Company and District 16 Fire Company at North Branch.

A quota of 3,000 feet of two and one-half inch fire hose will also be allocated. The hose will be located not more than 10 miles from Cumberland at volunteer fire company halls. Suggested places are the Cresaptown Fire Company, LaVale Fire Company and Baltimore Pike Fire Company. Additional fire hose may be purchased for distribution to other companies.

J. Walker Chapman, custodian for Civil Defense equipment in Allegany County, also reports he has received 240 litters for use in emergencies. Other CD equipment which is sent here will be stored at the county garage on Franklin Street. Chapman is county roads supervisor and was named CD custodian some months ago.

The board accepted the bid of the Paving Supply and Equipment Company to furnish a hydraulic crane for use by the County Roads Department. The firm bid $3,667.50 to furnish the device. It offered to install the machinery on a county truck chassis at no extra cost.

The only other bid was one of $3,649 by the West Virginia Tractor and Equipment Company. This bid called for furnishing one mechanic and the county to have a mechanic helper to install the equipment. The board decided that the work would take at least two days and figuring the county employee's daily pay at $10 the total cost to the county under this bid would be $3,669.

Republicans Win Catherman Vote

Students of Catherman's Business School revealed decided Republican tendencies in a mock election at the school.

Eisenhower and Nixon received 67 per cent of the votes cast, polling 96 votes as compared to 47 registered for the Democratic nominees, Stevenson and Sparkman. No ballots were cast for the Progressive Party candidates, Hallinan and Bass.

J. Glenn Beall, GOP nominee for U. S. Senator, received 81 votes for a majority of 45 over the number cast for his Democratic opponent, George P. Mahoney. Beall's vote represented 69 per cent of those cast.

The Republican candidate for the House of Representatives from the Sixth Congressional District, DeWitt S. Hyde, scored the most resounding victory by receiving 70 per cent of the votes cast for that contest. Hyde polled 81 votes and Mrs. Stella B. Werner, Democrat, 34.

Voting for the referendums affecting residents of Allegany County were also given heavy support. Jury duty for women was favored by 67.5 per cent of those who voted either in favor of or against the referendum. There were 77 votes cast in support of the act and 37 against.

Daylight Saving Time was favored by 70 voters, 56 per cent of the total vote, and 54 voted against the referendum.

Vote Republican Elect These Candidates

For President
DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER
For Vice President
RICHARD M. NIXON
For United States Senate
J. GLENN BEALL
For Member Of Congress
DEWITT S. HYDE

Hyde Is The Choice

The Cumberland News today urges the voters of Allegany County and the Sixth Congressional District to vote for DeWitt S. Hyde for Congress on Election Day, November 4.

Mr. Hyde, a young man of 43, has won the confidence of the voters of both parties in predominantly Democratic Montgomery County, his home, and we believe he merits the support of the five counties in the Sixth District.

Some voters of this county particularly may feel that with the withdrawal of J. Glenn Beall from the House of Representatives to seek election to the Senate, that Allegany County may be losing its congressman.

However, Mr. Hyde, who does not believe in making promises he cannot fulfill, has assured the voters of the county that upon his election he intends to open an office in Cumberland and be available here regularly to assist the people of Western Maryland with their problems.

In Montgomery County, which has a registration of some 49,000 Democrats and roughly 32,000 Republicans, Mr. Hyde, a Republican, twice has been elected to public office.

In 1946, he and a group of other Republicans challenged the Democratic organization and wrested control from them. Mr. Hyde was elected to the House of Delegates. Four years later, Montgomery countians promoted him to the Maryland Senate, an indication that his neighbors, the people who know him best, Democrats and Republicans alike, have confidence in his ability and integrity.

During World War II, Mr. Hyde served with the Navy as a lieutenant commander and saw duty in the South Pacific. He recently was endorsed for Congress by Paul H. Griffith, of Potomac, Md., former national commander of the American Legion.

Mr. Griffith says Mr. Hyde's "personal ability and his record in the Navy during the war as well as his record in the House and in the Senate of Maryland stamp him as a capable leader and forthright American," who stands for high principles and self-government.

With all of this in mind, The Cumberland News hopes the voters of Allegany County and the Sixth District will see fit to elect him as our next congressman. We endorse him warmly.

Research By Dogsled

Cosmic rays, which bombard the earth's atmosphere constantly from outer space, are still a scientific mystery. It's difficult to go about studying them because the atmosphere screens out a great deal of their power. Fortunately, that is.

So the study room must be taken to the cosmic rays, most of the time, by balloon and rocket.

The Navy has long been a cosmic ray student because, among other reasons, a method of navigation which is not subject to the vagaries of weather and other atmospheric disturbances may possibly emerge.

But cosmic rays are where you find them and ingenuity is required to get next to them.

A great deal of cosmic ray research has been done in the past by means of high altitude balloons. Some of the Navy's big plastic spheres have probably been the source of some of the numerous "saucer sightings." But as the Navy saw it, balloons were not enough, so rockets were hooked to the balloons, thereby projecting research instruments to altitudes of 40 miles.

The launchings were made from the deck of a Coast Guard cutter in the Arctic waters of Baffin Bay. Apparently this spot, close to the magnetic pole, offers the best possible conditions under which to study cosmic radiations. The balloons go up 17 miles after being launched from the cutter, then the rockets add 20 more miles to altitude.

Some of the information sought is automatically radioed back to the ship while the rocket is in flight, but the parachuted instruments still must be recovered. This is accomplished successfully at times by handsome rewards to eskimos and trappers who return the gear to the Navy. But of course some of them have yet to be found. Proving that while some aspects of research have reached the rocket age, others are still limited to the best pace that can be made by a sledge and a team of Arctic-wise dogs.

Panama Canal Gains

September, when 615 commercial and 116 U. S. government vessels passed through the Panama Canal and respectively paid tolls of $2,635,000 to the operating company and occasioned a $421,000 credit for government owned or operated ships, established an all-time record.

The same is true for the first nine months of this year in which 5,136 ships utilized the lock-and-lake canal for the 50-mile passage between the Atlantic and Pacific and paid $21,237,000 in tolls to save weeks required for the passage around Cape Horn. October promises to establish a new monthly record, and 1952 to outstrip every previous year.

Although the French began the canal in 1882 under the direction of De Lesseps, they abandoned it. The United States, believing there should be a waterway across the Isthmus of Panama under control, had been flirting with the idea of a canal across Nicaragua, and the Isthmus Canal Commission recommended one there.

Accession to the Presidency of Theodore Roosevelt after the assassination of William McKinley changed the aspect of affairs. French rights to the waterway were bought for $40,000,000, and in 1904 work started on the canal, which was opened in August 1914. The total cost, exclusive of the military establishment for defense of the Canal Zone, granted by the newly born Republic of Panama after it broke from Columbia, was $336,000,000.

Commercially and in respect to national safety the investment has justified itself many times over.

The Best Plan In Appendicitis

Educating the public on appendicitis paid handsome dividends in saving the lives of countless persons. Parents learned that reaching for the telephone and calling the physician was safer than reaching for a laxative whenever the youngster developed fever and abdominal distress. They came to realize the value of operation and consented to surgery rather than to wait until the appendix ruptured.

Not long ago an engineer was heard to say: "Do they still have appendicitis? I thought penicillin took care of that ten years ago." As a physician, I wish this were true. But the condition still is with us and, what is more, surgery remains the best treatment. We do not wish to decry the value of penicillin because it has been most effective in pulling through victims of peritonitis and in this respect has removed one of the most serious aspects of the disease.

We do not have a test to determine ahead of time whether the inflamed appendix will heal spontaneously or perforate to produce abscess or peritonitis. If we did, there would be a choice of treatments. An individual would be advised to remain in bed for a few days, apply an ice bag, eat lightly, and avoid cathartics. Penicillin or one of the other antibiotics would be recommended. Should this hypothetical test show that the person had the type of appendicitis that is likely to perforate, then operation would be needed. So far, a procedure to make this determination is lacking and to play safe we resort to surgery. The modern operation is far less hazardous than in bygone days. A minimum of discomfort may be anticipated and should complications occur the wonder drugs, salt and glucose solutions, and plasma are available. Many are able to leave the hospital three to five days after the trip to the operating room.

Calling the physician early continues to offer the best chance for complete recovery. The reason a cathartic should not be taken in the presence of abdominal pain is that such drugs stimulate the churning movements of the intestinal tract including the appendix, which encourages the organ to rupture.

Appendicitis usually begins with symptoms resembling old fashioned stomach ache. Pain may be located all over the abdomen which increases in severity as time passes. A feeling of nausea dispels all desire for food and when it persists vomiting is prone to follow. After six to ten hours, most sufferers know they have waited long enough, particularly when the site of pain becomes localized in the right lower abdomen. This region, especially the area adjacent to the inflamed appendix, is tender to the touch and when pressed, distress causes the individual to wince, scream, and bend the right leg.

It Fell On Its Face

Adlai Stevenson, early in the campaign, expressed noble ideals and spoke in a manner which won for him the praise of many intellectuals who felt that here was a literate and cultured candidate who would deal only with the issues.

Then Harry Truman jumped into the fray with the mannerisms of a street-corner dude, shocking young ladies. I should imagine that he shocked Stevenson as much as he shocked Eisenhower. He certainly made votes for the latter. It is Truman who has convinced many persons who were uncertain that it is time for a change.

Unfortunately, Truman set a new pace to the campaign and the tone became vituperative rather than argumentative. For instance, while Eisenhower says that he will personally go to Korea to solve that problem and Stevenson wants to know why he doesn't go to Moscow, nobody has discussed the vital program of General Douglas MacArthur which he has been running since a for winning that war.

A speech on Korea without mentioning MacArthur is empty; it would be preferable, from the people's standpoint, to attack MacArthur's accomplishments and program, if they cannot be praised and supported. To ignore the MacArthur saga is to speak of Korea without mentioning Korea.

This is characteristic of a campaign that fell on its face because it was tripped by Harry Truman. He has done this country a disservice because he killed off debate, forcing Stevenson to fight for notice and forcing Eisenhower to defend the integrity of his career. Truman has done this country a disservice by injecting race contentions and religious bigotry into the campaign.

What he is fighting for, as an overtone, is control of the Democratic organization in the big cities in the North. There an amalgam was developed under Roosevelt between Democratic bosses, the liberals, the racial groups and those who incorrectly regarded themselves as religious minorities in a country that has no state religion.

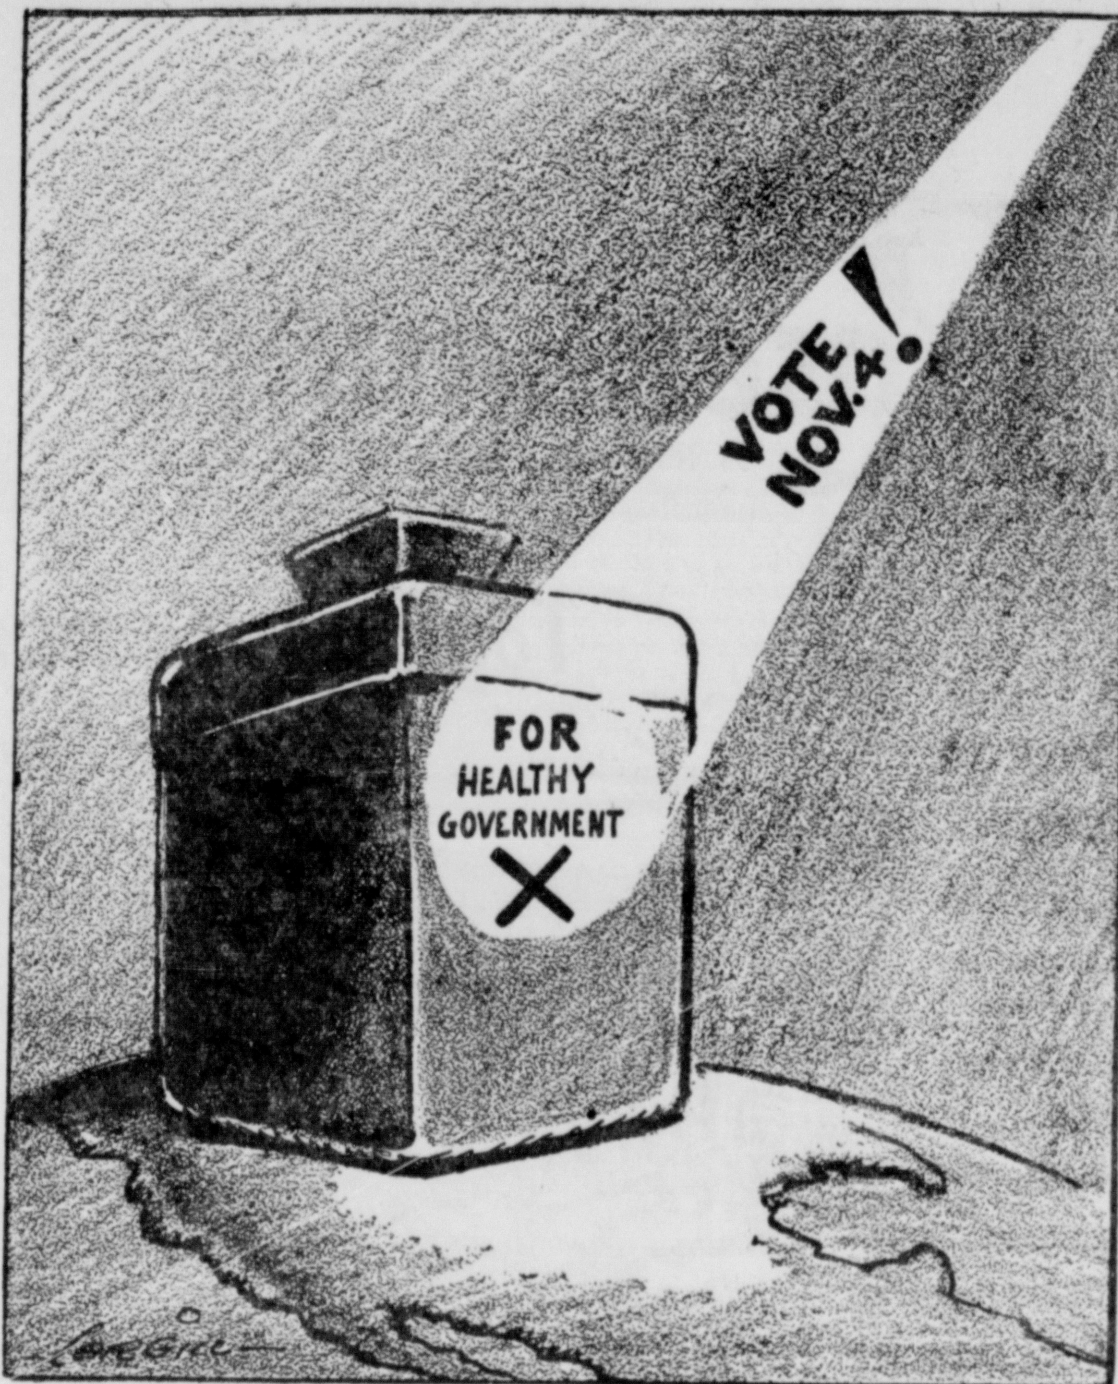

This curious amalgam of boss and reformer, of the crook and the dog-gone, worked politically to Roosevelt's advantage, but it fell apart under Truman. Boss Flynn of New York lost heart and became ill; Boss Hague of New Jersey was defeated and discredited; Jack Avery replaced Boss Kelly, and so it went over the country. The principal

But Harry Truman rejects the idea of a time for a change. He wants the old conditions to continue in Washington. He wants his records, his cronies, his associates, his ideas to be continued. He wants to control the political machine that will manage the Democrats in Congress, the Democrats who hold office, the Democrats who are beholden to him. He apparently plans to remain in residence in Washington as a political boss, dominating the President of the United States. This not even the Democrats want.

GOP Senate Control Depends On Two New Seats; Loss Of Three Republican Senators Anticipated; Langer And Morse Cause Added Worry

WASHINGTON—One thing worrying the GOP high command is that while capturing the White House they might lose the Senate. This is because only one-third of the Senate is up for election, and it happens that this year Republican senators are chiefly affected, many in marginal states.

To win control of the Senate, the Republicans must pick up two new seats. Instead they are likely to lose six states, and pick up three—a net loss of three senators.

Here is the box-score on the key races for the Senate:

NEW YORK—Sen. Irving Ives, Republican, frequent bolter to the GOP-Democratic liberals, will be re-elected.

CONNECTICUT—With two Democratic seats at stake in Connecticut, the Republicans are likely to pick up at least one. Chief issue in Connecticut is "McCarthyism." Senator Benton having been the only senator with the courage to ask for a Senate probe of McCarthy's unethical conduct. As a result, McCarthy and friends have thrown everything except the kitchen sink into Connecticut to defeat Benton.

MARYLAND—Congressman Glenn Beall, Republican, is likely to defeat Democrat George Mahoney.

MICHIGAN—Sen. Blair Moody, Democrat, is fighting an uphill race against Congressman Charles Potter, a legless veteran. Potter voted against everything Eisenhower was working for—defense funds, mutual security, aid to Europe; while Moody championed the principles of the late Senator Vandenberg. Nevertheless, sympathy for a legless veteran, plus the powerful support of both Ford and General Motors, is likely to defeat him.

WASHINGTON — Congressman "Scoop" Jackson, Democrat, is a probable winner over Senator Cain, the Republican who played footsie with the real estate lobby and the isolationist bloc.

MONTANA—Congressman Mike Mansfield is the favorite to defeat another isolationist Republican who was swept in with the 1946 landslide—Zales Ecton.

INDIANA—Sen. William Jenner, one of the most controversial senators in the campaign due to his attacks on General Marshall and Ike's subsequent endorsement, seems certain to lose to popular, middle-of-the-road Gov. Henry Schricker.

MISSOURI—Another GOP senator of the class of 1946, James Kenn, is due to be moved down by Stuart Symington, who cleaned up the RFC.

NEVADA — Tom Mechling, the young newsman who defeated Senator McCarran's law partner in the Democratic primary, now faces the open and bitter opposition of the most powerful man in Nevada—McCarran himself. This means that the Democratic machine is not actively behind him. However, such sympathy has been aroused for Mechling's lone battle that he may defeat GOP Senator Malone. Nevadans know that Malone, whom McCarran now backs, previously was treated by him like dirt.

MASSACHUSETTS—Young Congressman John Kennedy, Democrat with a liberal voting record, is considered likely to defeat Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, despite the powerful support given Lodge by Eisenhower.

NEW MEXICO — Sen. Dennis Chavez, Democrat, has an understanding with Republican leaders whereby the state will probably go for Eisenhower, but simultaneously defeat the ebullient Pat Hurley, now running against Chavez for the Senate.

WYOMING — Joe O'Mahoney, Democrat, a skilled and respected Senate veteran, is in the tough fight with GOP Governor Barrett. The race is close, but O'Mahoney is expected to squeak through.

UTAH—Sen. Arthur Watkins, Republican, is in a sear battle with Congressman Walter Granger, Democrat. Watkins has become so desperate that he has imported Harvey Matusow, to attack Granger. Granger, however, has been a solid, hard-working congressman and the attack may boomerang.

OHIO—Sen. John Bricker, voted No. 96 by Washington newsmen in contrast to Taft's rating of No. 1, is being pushed by Mike Di Salvo, the former price administrator. Hurting Bricker is the fact that, following his consistent voting with the real estate lobby to remove rent controls, Bricker has also admitted receiving $69,000 from his law firm, while the firm in turn received $138,000 from the Pennsylvania Railroad. Bricker consistently voted against Sen. Lawrence Seaway, though Ohio is a Great Lakes state.

KENTUCKY — The Republicans may pick up one seat in the close race between ex-Sen. John S. Cooper, Republican, and Democratic Senator Tom Underwood. Cooper is a Vandenberg Republican with a fine record.

WEST VIRGINIA—Ex-Sen. Chapman Revercomb, the Republican whom Governor Dewey snubbed in 1948 because of his votes against minority groups, isn't given much chance to win against Democratic Sen. Harley Kilgore.

DELAWARE—A close race is developing between Sen. John Williams, Republican, and Lt. Gov. Alexis I. du Pont Bayard. Though the du Ponts usually back a Republican, in this case they are either keeping neutral or giving some

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—This writer has made a prediction on each of the last nine Presidential elections and has been right seven times and wrong twice. The prediction made today—that Eisenhower will win—is based on the same approach and the same formula that has been used in these dispatches on previous election contests.

Eisenhower can win even without the combined electoral votes of New York, Illinois and California, though this writer expects him to carry two and possibly all three of them.

The formula used here is based on an analysis of what states have special situations, and what states are likely to follow a national pattern, and from these an electoral table is presented which gives the minimum that the successful candidate may be expected to get.

Where several states are "close" and are considered a "toss-up," the test is whether this is a normal situation—similar to the previous Presidential elections—or whether the fact that a state is "close" means an abnormal situation.

Thus, based on elections in recent years, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Rhode Island should not be "close" at all, but should be heavily Democratic. In fact, the Democrats in Massachusetts in 1948 gained over their 1944 percentage in a marked deviation upward from the downward national curve. This time, however, there are Democratic losses apparent in both Massachusetts and Rhode Island, where there is a substantial defection of Catholics on the anti-Communist issue. This means that both states are "special situations"—just as is New York, where there will be an unusually heavy vote of Jewish and Negro groups on the Democratic side in New York City.

One gets the national pattern outside of New York City and Boston. There isn't any doubt that even in a state like Missouri, which is normally heavy on the Democratic side, there is a noticeable upsurge of Eisenhower strength. Why should Minnesota be "close"? And why should Iowa be definitely turning from its Democratic vote of four years ago, unless a tide in favor of change is running through the entire West and Pacific Coast states where "special situations" like those in New York City and Boston do not occur? To anyone familiar with political tides—such as the protest now running against the Truman administration—this is a truly significant development.

Following are the states which this writer surely expects to go for Eisenhower:

California (32), Colorado (6), Connecticut (6), Delaware (3), Idaho (4), Illinois (27), Indiana (13), Iowa (10), Kansas (8), Maine (5), Maryland (9), Michigan (20), Montana (4), Nebraska (6), Nevada (3), New Hampshire (4), New Jersey (16), North Dakota (4), Ohio (25), Oregon (6), Pennsylvania (32), South Dakota (4), Vermont (3), Virginia (12), Wisconsin (12), and Wyoming (3)—a total of 279 electoral votes. Only 268 are necessary to win.

But the above is presented as a minimum table and not a maximum. While this writer expects the actual electoral table for Eisenhower to be in excess of 279, the vote margins in the individual states, as they turn from their 1948 Democratic majority to a Republican majority this year, will be narrow. For it takes, theoretically, only the vote of a single citizen to make a majority in a state and cause the entire electoral vote of that state to be cast for the side with a one-vote majority.

Now it should be observed that New York State, with its 45 votes, is not included in the above minimum electoral table. In fact, without adding New York, one can also subtract California's 32 and Illinois' 27, and the minimum table comes down to 220, and then, in order to get 268, it would be necessary for Ike to pick up the difference between 220 and 268, which is 48 votes. This is equivalent to saying that Eisenhower could lose the three big states—New York and Illinois and California—and still win, provided he picks up 46 electoral votes elsewhere in the country.

Looking to the states with "special situations"—like those with a "civil rights" or strong anti-Communist issue—there are Florida (10), Massachusetts (16), and Tennessee (11), where defections from the regular Democratic party are substantial. These make up 37. With the addition of either Minnesota's 11, or Washington's 9, this adds up to 46 or 48. There is a good chance of either Minnesota or Washington turning over this year to Eisenhower, because both states would seem to be largely unaffected by "special situations" and probably will follow the national pattern of the Midwestern or Pacific Coast states.

Summing up, the "ratio of doubt" in state after state favors Eisenhower on the basis of the apparent diminution of the Democratic strength in many states from coast to coast. Even in the "special situation" states, Republican gains of material size are being conceded by the Democrats.

Looking at the picture from the Stevenson side, the "ratio of doubt" is against him. There are too many states in which the Democratic nominee has only an "outside chance"—no better than an "even chance"—to do as well as Truman did four years ago. While the minority groups will go for Stevenson, they voted Democratic in 1948 also. The labor union vote was heavy then for Truman, too, but this is offset now, to an appreciable extent, by the number of households where the high cost of living or the fear of endless war in Korea is shifting votes that normally would be Democratic.

This prediction assumes, of course, that the precinct workers on both sides will try as hard on election day to get out the registered vote as they did in 1940, when Willie was running. There is every indication that they will.

This correspondent has always made his predictions without regard to his own personal choice. Thus, this writer predicted a victory for FDR three out of four times, though never once favoring his election from the days of 1932. This was because Mr. Roosevelt surrendered to the isolationist side and argued against American entry into the League of Nations, which this writer has always favored. So it isn't a case of which candidate is the better man or which one ought to be elected, but which one, based on all the available evidence and judgement of political trends, will be elected—and it looks certain for Eisenhower.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — The national population is aging and American women are proving themselves more durable and tougher than men. Since 1900, the population of the United States has doubled, while the number of persons 65 years of age and older has quadrupled. There are now 13,000,000 men and women 65 years of age and older, and this number is increasing currently at the rate of about 400,000 a year.

These are among the facts revealed in a comprehensive study just completed by the Federal Social Security Administration and the Committee on Aging and Geriatrics, entitled "Fact Book on Aging."

Fifty years ago only one American in 25 was 65 years old or over. Today it is "around one in 12 and the percentage of older people is steadily increasing." While the national percentage has quadrupled, the increase in California and Nevada was 60 per cent or more, and in Arizona and Florida 80 per cent or more.

Since 1900, the average life expectancy at birth has increased from 49 years to nearly 68 years—almost two decades. Here is the basic reason for the greater percentage of older people in our midst.

The improvement in life expectancy has been greatest at birth and decreases thereafter. While the individual, at age 45, now has a 3½-year greater life expectancy than he had 50 years ago, by the time he reaches 60 only two years have been added and by 75 hardly more than one year. At 85 life expectancy today is no greater than it was 50 years ago. In other words, more people now survive to older ages than they did formerly, but having gotten there they do not live longer than did the older people of 1900.

quiet support to their Democratic cousin.

NEW JERSEY—Sen. Alexander Smith, Republican, will probably win out over efficient Undersecretary of the Army Archibald Alexander, Democrat.

Should the above calculations be wrong, however, and should the Republicans win three new seats instead of dropping a net of three, they still have to worry about Senators Wayne Morse of Oregon, who recently bolted, and Bill Langer of North Dakota, who rode on Truman's train. Their two votes might be necessary in order to organize the Senate.

At all ages, the life expectancy of women is greater than that of men. The difference is over five years at birth, and around two years at 65.

As long as medical records have been compiled they have shown that more boy babies are born each year than girl babies. There is no accepted scientific explanation for this disparity in the birthrate between the two sexes. Some authorities have attributed it to an unfathomable ability by nature to offset the far greater number of deaths among men as a result of wars and revolutions down through the ages.

If this theory is correct, and it is agreed to be only a theory, it has not worked out during the last 50 years, possibly because of two world wars. As recent as 50 years ago there were 102 old men for every 100 old women. In 1950, there were 6,473,774 women over 65 years of age as compared with 5,797,040 old men. This means less than 90 old men for every 100 old women.

More boy babies are born than girl babies, but since in every age class the male death rate is higher than the female death rate, the male superiority in numbers in a given generation doesn't last very long. The FSA has no explanation for this mystery of nature other than that the "female is tougher and more durable than the male."

The typical older man is married. The typical older woman is a widow. Because women have a lower mortality rate than men, age for age, and tend to marry men older than themselves, relatively more women than men lose a spouse through death. Furthermore, remarriage following death of spouse is more frequent among men than women. By the time they reach 70, more than half of all women are widows. At that age, however, almost three in four men are married. It is not until they are 85 years of age that a majority of men find themselves in a widowed state.

When grandfather was a boy, says FSA, schooling did not have the importance it has today. Not many boys and girls went on to high school, and higher education was for the select few. Almost one in every five persons aged 65 years and over today had less than five years of schooling; about half failed to complete grade school. Only about a fourth have had any high school education; fewer than one in 10 have ever gone to college.

TWUA Defends Sparkman

To the Editor of The News

On Saturday, October 18th, an editorial appeared in your newspaper which, in effect, criticized union labor as a whole, myself, as head of Local 1874 in particular. In regard to our invitation to Senator Sparkman to appear at a rally here in Cumberland, I do not think that your statement was in good taste, and I indicated in my introductory remarks at the rally that I would answer your editorial of the above-mentioned date.

We have been led to believe that the press of the United States is open-minded and fair in every respect; however, on such an occasion as this, you deemed it necessary to put into your newspaper somewhat of a slur or smear. We, therefore, wish to indicate that the labor movement does not take the position that persons which it supports for Congress and for President and vice president must agree with its position on every single issue. In the case of the Taft-Hartley Act, although Senator Sparkman has not taken a completely parallel position with TWUA in the past, he has been on record for outright repeal. Senator Nixon not only voted for the Taft-Hartley Act all the way, he brags that he was one of the authors of this legislation.

The members of the Textile Workers Union will not be misled by this new-found sympathy on the part of The Cumberland News. They know that John Sparkman, throughout his career in Congress, has been a real friend of the average man, whether he be textile mill worker, housewife, small businessman or farmer. He has consistently worked for and supported legislation for their benefit. His record is in direct contrast with that of Senator Nixon, who has consistently voted for the special interests whether they be the big oil companies, the real estate lobby, the power lobby, or the medical lobby.

Nixon went out of his way this spring to smear the Textile Workers Union when he signed a minority dissent to a Senate sub-committee report showing that the Taft-Hartley Act has practically stifled the self-organization of employees in the Southern branch of the textile industry. Nixon had not participated in the hearings, indeed, he had not been a member of the Senate Labor Committee at the time the hearings were held, on which this report was based. Nevertheless, he let his name go on a deliberate smear of the Textile Workers Union of America.

More than that, Nixon asserted that it was perfectly all right that wages should be lower in the Southern mill village. Chain concerns like Celanese, according to Nixon's doctrine, should have the protection of law in undermining Northern wage standards. Nixon offered an alibi for Southern manufacturers who, the Senate subcommittee showed, regularly resort to the worst sort of racist prejudices in whipping up hysteria against legitimate unions.

Let me quote specifically what Senator Sparkman said in a Labor Day speech in Los Angeles: "One of the big issues in this campaign is: Shall we have a new labor law which deals fairly with both labor and management, or shall we continue under the anti-labor Taft-Hartley Act?" "I voted to sustain President Truman's veto of the Taft-Hartley Act. I was convinced by his analysis that it was not a fair and workable law. I am proud of my stand against it and proud of my party's stand against it. I want to point out that the Republican stand for Taft-Hartley is part and parcel of its stand on all the domestic issues which face the country. The Republicans' anti-labor stand cannot be separated from their stand against the best interests of the farmer and the small businessman. Except for what Governor Stevenson called the 'Republican liberal hour' which occurs just before every national election, but never when Congress is in session, you cannot count on the Republican party to be any different in the future from what it has been in the past—the party against the common man."

Let me quote from a memorandum to me from John W. Edelman, Washington TWUA representative, who has maintained close contact with Senator Sparkman for a number of years:

"It is curious to find a family newspaper such as The Cumberland News having to find material to smear John Sparkman in a notorious, smart-alecky scandal-mongering monthly. (Editor's Note—The American Mercury) The author of this piece who recently posed, in this dime novel, as an expert on prostitution in Hawaii, certainly can't have lived long enough in Alabama to know the truth about Senator Sparkman."

"Hue's insinuations are wide of the mark. I was in close touch with the senator during the whole period the Taft-Hartley Act was before the Congress. First of all, labor people, like others who expect to get anywhere with this legislation, don't try to pressure him. We give him facts, we present our arguments, we definitely avoid pressure.

"The real estate lobbyists, one of the most expert and untiring political pressure groups in Washington, have tried to 'handle' Sparkman for years. His consistent votes against everything that crowd wants proves that pressure didn't pay off.

"This past session a big electrical manufacturing corporation tried to bring pressure to bear on Senator Sparkman in an effort to invalidate the Walsh-Healey (Public Contracts) Act. The rest of the Southern manufacturers joined that drive. Most of the Southern senators gave ground at once when the manufacturers threatened that plants in their states would close down and no new ones established if the minimum wage provisions on government contracts were not made meaningless by a carefully worked amendment. Sparkman did not hesitate. He vigorously opposed the amendment on every occasion it came up for a vote.

"Over the years this has been my invariable experience with the senator. When he is ready to make up his mind, he says what he will do. In my experience he has never said he would do something and then do the reverse. It is just not in Sparkman's character to be 'two-faced.' "Senator Sparkman's long record of support and advocacy of social legislation, his consistent and effective work on behalf of small business, his leadership in the field of housing and farm legislation, his courageous, informed and consistently liberal record in the field of international relations, mark him as a man any labor organization would be glad to sponsor and support."

Very truly yours,

Mr., Mrs. Cloyd R. True Honored On Anniversary

Miss Lois True entertained with a surprise party honoring her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd R. True in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary. It was held last evening at their home, 715 North Mechanic Street.

The former Miss Bosie Zella Metz, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Metz, Cumberland, became the bride of Mr. True, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George True, also of here, November 3, 1927. The ceremony was performed in Kingsley Methodist Church with Rev. Dickey officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. True are the parents of three children, Cpl. Cloyd True, Jr., Camp Breckenridge, Ky.; Roy True, aboard the USS Oriskany, Japan and Miss Lois True, at home. Mr. True is employed by the city and is a member of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Wedding bells and a silver color scheme were combined in the decorations. A tiered cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom centered the table. Mrs. Nellie Taylor assisted in serving.

Guests were Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gilford, Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Eversole, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Arnone, Mrs. Mary Ann Chaney, Miss Margaret Grimm, Mr. and Mrs. Addie Stott, Mrs. Viola Bray, Miss Dorothy Sherita and Mrs. Lucas Mort.

Civics Club Organized

The seventh grade Civics class of St. Patrick's School organized a Civics Club and elected officers recently.

Joseph McDade was elected president; Joan Rozum, vice president; Joyce Mullan, and Joyce Mullan, secretaries; and Roger Blake, sergeant at arms.

The club meets each Tuesday and has received its charter from the Commission on American Citizenship, Washington. It is to foster training for good citizenship in the upper elementary grades and through monthly projects learn the meaning of Christian social living based on principles of justice and charity.

"Know Your Neighbor, Help Your Neighbor," is the national theme for the year.

A "Quiet Day of Prayer" in accordance with the Week of Prayer and Self Denial, was observed by Pleasant Grove WSCS, Thursday at the home of Mrs. Harry Wilson, Baltimore Pike.

A tribute to the mission schools and hospitals to receive the offering, was given by Mrs. Martin Gordon, with the aid of an illustrated chart.

The program opened with a piano prelude, "Near the Cross," by the hostess, Mrs. James Michaels read the Scripture text and Mrs. William Swan, president, led in prayer. Meditations with time for silent prayers were given by Mrs. Harry Northcraft while Mrs. Wilson provided a musical background. A quartet composed of Mrs. Adolph Norris, Mrs. Lemuel Yokum, Mrs. William Swan and Mrs. Harry Raines, sang, "The World Needs a Friend like Jesus."

Mrs. Howard Perrin was guest speaker and reviewed a book of the story of an African boy's life.

During the offertory a piano duet, "Meditations" was played by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Norris. Singing of hymns and prayer concluded the observance. Mrs. Northcraft and Mrs. Gordon were in charge of the program.

Others attending were Mrs. Jessie Knight, Mrs. Samuel Clark, Mrs. William Shipley, Mrs. Ira Robinette, Mrs. Melvin Robinette, Mrs. Carl Wilson and Mrs. Leslie E. Hinkle.

Chorus To Give Cantata

IR Group To Help Residents Obtain U. S. Citizenship

Mrs. Whitlock Explains Laws

The International Relations Group of the Woman's Civic Club plans to assist Allegany county residents who desire citizenship. Mrs. John Hafer, announce, at the meeting of the group Thursday.

Mrs. Hafer said that in Allegany county there are 287 residents who are not citizens of the United States, many of whom desire citizenship but do not know how to go about obtaining it. The group, as its project, will contact these people and assist them in attaining their goal.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. A. N. Golladay, Washington Street, with Mrs. Lloyd H. Buchanan presiding. She presented Mrs. Hafer who outlined the committee's program for the year.

Mrs. William A. Douglas, First District president, introduced Mrs. Roy D. Whitlock, Baltimore, Legislation chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who spoke on "Your Laws and Mine."

Mrs. Whitlock explained the method the General Federation uses in adopting resolutions which become the basis for its program. The speaker stressed the fact that many subjects are controversial and although the resolutions passed by the federation become club policy the right of individual members to their personal opinion is recognized.

Mrs. Whitlock's talk concerned those resolutions adopted by the General Federation having to do with International Relations.

The first resolution is the Implementation of Article 43 of the United Nations Charter in which all members of the United Nations shall be ready to contribute supplies, man power, ammunition, etc. to any emergency conflict that may arise. Mrs. Whitlock said that America is in the present Korean conflict and other members must be required to contribute equally.

The second resolution had to do with collective action against aggression by the United Nations. The speaker stressed the need to trust the U. N., and faith that there will be eventually unity and that the work they are doing is of enormous value. She said the work of UNESCO must be carried on in all nations of the world. She pointed out UNESCO has assisted in elevating health and living standards in many countries of the world. Mrs. Whitlock said that because "we have not arrived at peace we should not feel that the UNESCO has not helped."

The General Federation has also passed a resolution using an International Police Force to assist the Security Council in matters of aggression.

Another resolution urges full participation by the United States in the UN both with a motive for sharing and for building good will for America. In speaking of the Voice of America program, Mrs. Whitlock said "we do not know how effective it is. We don't even know if many people behind the Iron Curtain hear it. But, the Federation has urged Congress to appropriate funds sufficient for a greatly expanded program."

There is a resolution which advocates that food surpluses be made available to countries that need them and another resolution which urges continuance of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements because it is necessary to form good fellowship with other nations of the world. Another resolution deals with proper punishment of people infiltrating the country for subversive activities. When subversives enter civic life for the purpose of spreading the communistic theory they should be punished. Mrs. Whitlock said, but that everyone we don't approve of should not be labeled a "pink."

Before closing the speaker dwelt briefly on the referendum which will appear on the ballot November

There is a resolution which advocates that food surpluses be made available to countries that need them and another resolution which urges continuance of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements because it is necessary to form good fellowship with other nations of the world. Another resolution deals with proper punishment of people infiltrating the country for subversive activities. When subversives enter civic life for the purpose of spreading the communistic theory they should be punished. Mrs. Whitlock said, but that everyone we don't approve of should not be labeled a "pink."

Canine Pet Show Today

Registration for the Canine Pet show, being held by the Cumberland Council of Girl Scouts today has been extended and will be accepted until 1 o'clock.

The show will be held at 2 o'clock at the Girl Scout house. All entries must be brought to the Girl Scout house between 1 and 1:45.

No dog under three months can be entered and each must have a strong collar and leash and wear a license or numbered tag. If the entry is taken home before the show is over the exhibitor forfeits the prize.

Mrs. J. L. Towler and Dr. C. N. Foote are the judges. Entries are being judged as the best dog, largest, oldest, whitest, blackest, best groomed, best yellow dog, best purebred, best trick dog, most mixed breed, dog with most spots, with longest tail, with longest ears, smallest dog and most obedient.

To Hold Get-To-Gether

The Polish Mountain Homemakers Club is holding a Halloween party and general get-together, tonight. It will be at 7:30 o'clock in the club house, Green Ridge.

Plintstone Homemakers Club members will be guests and everyone is welcome. Mrs. Willis Rice is in charge of the recreation.

4 dealing with the Program Budget Plan. She explained heretofore in Maryland each department of the state has brought in its budget for approval of the State Legislature. These budgets were very lengthy. The package budget will be an overall outline of the entire state budget but it will be concise so that at a glance legislators will be able to look at the figures and tell what amounts go to what departments. This is considered the most up to date method of financing and is used already in 13 states. Mrs. Whitlock personally favored the plan.

Following Mrs. Whitlock's talk tea was served with Mrs. Charles L. Kopp President of the Women's Civic Club presiding at the tea table. She was assisted by Mrs. Golladay, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. David Kauffman, Mrs. Albert Tosh, Mrs. Harry B. Simpson, Mrs. Hafer and Mrs. W. R. Zollinger. Approximately 80 members attended.

Soroptimist Commended On Progress

The Cumberland Soroptimist Club was congratulated on its progress in its first year of work at the 37th Regional Conference of the South Atlantic Region of American Federation, Soroptimist International Association, The conference was held at Annapolis earlier in the week.

Representatives of the local service woman's club, were Miss Jeanette Bonig, member of the board of directors and Dr. Rita Brinker, treasurer of the local group.

A meeting of the local board of directors is being held at Shehee's restaurant at noon Tuesday.

"Strength Through Service" was the theme of the conference. Lulu M. Feller, Baltimore, regional governor, directed the business sessions. The Annapolis and Anne Arundel County clubs were hostesses.

Bearing out the organization objective of community service, reports of various club presidents showed the variety of service. They included social service, scholarship and fellowship awards to deserving students, foreign relations good will promotions and civil defense participation.

Mary Gerringer, Greensboro, N. C., presented her technicolor travelogue of the International convention of SIA in Copenhagen, Denmark in June. She also showed the subsequent tour of the Foreign Relations group through Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, France and England. She told of the extensive rehabilitation of the European clubs, particularly in Germany.

Twenty nine clubs through Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, were represented at the regional conference.

County WCTU Is Sponsoring Speaker At Special Meetings

Allegany County Women's Christian Temperance Union will have Mrs. W. B. O'Neal, national WCTU field secretary and vice president of the Illinois union, as guest speaker here the week of November 15-24.

Mrs. John S. Cook, county president is arranging special meetings throughout the county, at which Mrs. O'Neal will address the groups.

Five members of the local union attended the Maryland State Women's Christian Temperance Union meeting in Baltimore this week. Two of them took part in the program. Mrs. Cook, member of the state board and county president, reported on the work in the county.

Mrs. A. E. Keseker, conducted the memorial service. Others attending from here were Mrs. E. W. Yates, state legislative director; Mrs. Edward Shumaker, local president and Miss Ina Keister, county treasurer.

At the 77th convention, the state WCTU went on record as "strenuously opposing the insidious infiltration of communism into our educational system, churches, so-called religious education and government; urged the passage of a law against the lying advertisements seeking to entice and enslave our youth; to stand for total abstinence for the individual and prohibition for the nation; deplore the tragic and continuing threat to our youth in the use of heroin and marihuana; support the stand taken both educationally and legislatively by those in authority; re-affirm its opposition to 'Peace Time Compulsory Military Training'; protest the tax payers high taxes and permit the liquor traffic to pay less taxes; urge the elimination of the sale of beer, wine and any alcoholic beverages in American Legion halls; and spread information concerning infant blindness caused by mothers smoking while administering to the baby."

Opti Mrs. Club rummage sale will be held at the corner of Bedford and Centre Street Monday evening from 7 until 9 o'clock.

ence. Rev. G. Albert Cooper, rector, St. Margaret's Church, Westminster parish gave the keynote speech at the formal dinner, Laura Leonard, president of the Annapolis Club was toastmaster.

A CITY THAT LIVED while the Martyrs died

Pompeii was a thriving metropolis during the first great persecution of Christians. It is probable that many an early follower of Jesus Christ met death in the amphitheatre of this very city.

But in 79 A. D. Vesuvius erupted, engulfing Pompeii in a sea of lava and volcanic ash.

For centuries, while the once-great city lay forgotten beneath the earth's crust, the followers of Christ were carrying their Gospel to every corner of the world. Today, the ruins of Pompeii are a study in antiquity; but Christian Churches lift their spires over every village and city.

Worldly beauty, power, glory can crumble. But Faith cannot be destroyed.

Are you building your life on the indestructible foundation the Church offers?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Joe Palmer, Racing Editor And Turf Authority, Dies

MALVERNE, N. Y., Oct. 31 (P) — Joe H. Palmer, racing editor of the New York Herald Tribune and one of the nation's leading turf authorities and columnists, died today of a heart attack at his home. He was 48.

Palmer, native of Lexington, Ky., was a one-time English instructor at the University of Kentucky and the University of Michigan. He came to the Herald Tribune about seven years ago.

While arrow and spearheads have been picked up practically everywhere Indians roamed, the flint from which they were made is found in widely separated areas. The largest known deposit is the eight-mile-long ridge near Newark.

On Flint Ridge, as it is known, there are hundreds of quarries or pits from which this necessary material was taken by early man. Archeologists believe the quarries were used by the Hopewell culture around 1100-1300, by the Adena people perhaps around 800, and doubtless by other peoples long before that. By the time pioneers began to settle the land, the aboriginals had abandoned flint for metal, for the most part.

There is every indication that Flint Ridge was neutral ground. Doubtless bitter tribal enemies worked side by side, one without fear of the other so long as their business was obtaining flint. Today we call it a moral code or unwritten law which protected representatives of various tribes as they made the long journey to the Ridge and as they returned to their homes with the precious material.

It is believed that certain workers were expert quarrymen who did the actual labor of removing the flint from the pits. This was a stupendous job, as modern archaeologists have discovered. Even with today's tools it is no light task.

The quarrying tools of those early people were stone hammers, stone and wood wedges and perhaps tools fashioned from bone and horn. Hammers were round stones, frequently granite. For that part of the operation which required great care, the hammers were small such as would fit the palm of the hand. For the rougher work hammers weighing 25 pounds or more were hurled against a ledge or outcropping of flint to remove large pieces, or to clear out inferior stone and debris. Only one stone hammer has been found at the Ridge which might have had a wooden handle attached.

Some authorities believe fires were built over deposits to loosen chunks of flint, but after extensive research no evidence whatsoever was found that heat was used to remove the flint from this place.

As chunks of flint were loosened, they were removed to workshops nearby where they were broken out or made into cores. The cores were pieces of pure flint from which had been chipped all visible defects, and were then ready to be flaked off for knives, skinning tools and scrapers. The blocked-out materials were for arrow and spear points and other articles, to be made into the finished product on home grounds, perhaps several hundred miles away.

Because of the distance it was carried, frequently on foot, as much excess weight as possible was eliminated. Many caches of cores and other material from which tools and weapons were to be made have been found far from the Ridge, on or near old village sites.

Workshop sites at the Ridge are easily identified by the vast amount of flint chips, partly finished cores and discarded material.

While Ohio and surrounding states are rich in their earthworks of the Moundbuilders, and some of the finest are only eight miles from the Ridge but one small burial mound has been found at this place. It contained two bodies, together with a number of ornaments. Also there is no evidence that the Ridge ever was fortified, although the location is ideal for it.

Realizing that this ancient heritage should be preserved, Ohio's Historical society obtained 76 acres a number of years ago in the cross-roads area. It now is a state park visited yearly by thousands of people.

As President Roosevelt's special envoy, Braden was so tough and patient during all the gabbing that admiring Latins called him the Garrapata (the Leech). Neither man could blame Bolivia or Paraguay for starting the war if they wanted the discussions to continue; they were in the delicate spot of police officers looking into a killing whose two suspects are a high church minister and a fellow who's given all his money to charity.

Things happened at the Buenos Aires conference that sound like Panmunjom today. Everybody haggled for months over one single letter in a word—should it be "line" or "lines"? On that one letter "a" hung all kinds of matters, like how far apart the two warring armies should withdraw.

Bolivia had 2,500 prisoners of war in her camps; Paraguay had 10 times as many in hers. Paraguay offered to trade PWs on a man-for-man basis; Bolivia angrily said no.

When it came to the final boundaries, the two nations separately offered their terms in secret sessions, but to the diplomats' horror both sides asked for the limit and then more. It took a lot of skillful handling to hush up these two claims, for if each side knew what the other was asking, the war would have started all over again.

At last a solution was reached, with Paraguay getting a chunk of land as big as the state of Missouri, and Bolivia keeping her river port and some oil lands. As "mourning constellations of buzzards" circled over the battle-worn Chaco and the monkeys and parrots scammed out from under cover, the Chaco war ended—because the peace-makers' voices held out for three years.

On April 1, 1935, a six-nation conference of five Latin American countries plus the United States sat down in Buenos Aires to see what they could do about it, while the Panmunjom truce talks in Korea have dragged on for a long time, but 17 years ago a set of diplomatic ahidings down in South America made Panmunjom look like a five-minute phone call. The boys in striped pants took 18 trips at arbitration and hashed over 65 different solutions before they finally got the countries of Bolivia and Paraguay to make peace—it all added up to three years of talking, longer than the war itself lasted.

The war involved was the so-called Chaco war, which was fought over a stretch of ground you would not call home if all the people who sent you cards last Christmas lived right next door to you on it. Full of blue-green flies, this dreary "green hell" on the border of Bolivia and Paraguay was so dry at times the heat was "like a cloak of rubber," and so wet in the rainy season that the rockless soil swallowed up whatever was on it. A river wound out of this area, landlocked Bolivia's only outlet to the sea; the Bolivians claimed Paraguay was crowding them off this river, and the war was on, in the fighting.

In the 1932 brought in the United States in some queer way. Bolivian soldiers wore old American World War I uniforms, with this country's Great Seal still on the buttons. In the Senate in Washington, Senator Huey (Kingfish) Long jumped to his feet and accused a major American oil corporation of starting the war to branch out in its oil leases down there.

Some Bolivians would dig 150 feet down on the battlefield to get some water, be surprised by a group of equally thirsty Paraguayans, and fight a skirmish resulting in 13 dead men at the bottom of a deep dry well.

However, this war got to be far more than just a border spat; soon both countries lost over 100,000 men. Bolivia's currency dropped to a tenth of its pre-war value, and Paraguay could hardly pay her civil servants. A neutral peace commission flying over the battle lines saw 10,000 human skeletons glistening in the sun.

Prehistoric Man's Arsenal Becomes Ohio State Park

By LAURA FENNER
 Central Press Correspondent
 NEWARK, Ohio — Seven miles southeast of here remains much interesting evidence of an industry which existed so long ago there is no record of the time it was established, or indeed when activities ceased there, although workmen left behind them many tools used and articles fashioned.

This site was an arsenal of prehistoric man. Here were made the weapons for the slaying of his game and likewise his enemies.

Take a tip from the beauty secrets of famed Queen Bess if you wish to make the most of yourself!

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Almost anyone can view with appreciation the portrait of famed Queen Bess of the sixteenth century. But, are you able to detect the strategy with which she created her historic fashion, her regal beauty and sartorial elegance?

If so, the probability is that you are one of the few women capable of judging their own beauty assets and liabilities in impartial fashion. That's the kind of eye it takes to accomplish success like Queen Bess!

Personalized Style
 Queen Bess studied her beauty faults and her beauty assets; she minimized the former, played up the latter and brought both into a desirable, lovely harmony. This three-sided tactic is one that women renowned for extraordinary loveliness have always used.

Here's how Queen Bess put it to work. Liking her tiny and shapely waist, she had her clothes cut and fitted to show it off. Displeased with the unusual length of her neck, she designed a ruff to hide it. Combining these two devices in attractive harmony not only served the Queen's beauty exceedingly well but, as many portraits of the period show, created an historic fashion—first!

While relatively few women have the wealth and prestige generally needed to launch an entirely new and distinctive fashion, all have beauty stores far beyond even clever

Elizabeth's imagination. To work your personal wonders, you have available, at whatever price you wish to pay, miracle-making cosmetics, treatments, diets, exercises, posture routines and fashions so varied that there is a wide selection designed to enhance every type of figure and face.

To extract their magic, all you need do is choose those that are suited to your own particular needs and then apply them to your individual advantage.

Creating Your Beauty
 But can you do that? Not unless you are able to appraise your beauty assets and liabilities with complete impartiality. Too many of the fair sex either spend their efforts decrying their bad points or stargaze in the mirror at their go-go-ones. You must face up to both the good and bad with complete objectivity.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 — (INS) — No company makes as many men's pictures as MGM, or as many pictures with themes having to do with war. The latest is "The USS Canopus Story," telling of the exploits of a submarine which replenishes other subs in actual combat.

This is all pretty technical to me, and I suppose it is to most women. The story, being developed into a screenplay by Fred Hazlitt Brennan, is a true one and will be produced by Armand Deutsch early next year. The stars are Howard Keel, Barry Sullivan and Gig Young.

Far be it from me to tell MGM, which made "The Great Caruso," "Show Boat" and other top pictures, what to do, but oh dear, it does seem to me we have had far too many pictures to do with war.

Out Republic way they're putting on "The Woman Who Was Almost Lynched," a drama of the Civil War and Quantrill's Raiders by Michael Pessier.

Papa Yates is digging deep to give it all the trimmings, with pretty, demure Joan Leslie getting the femme lead in this, her first picture under her new contract, Audrey Totter plays a tough, border beauty, with John Lund and Brian Donlevy drawing the male star roles.

Alan Dwan, who is doing all right at the little studio in the valley, and who, after all these years, is still one of Hollywood's best, will produce and direct. The starting date is within a week. Steve Fischer did the scripting.

Candy Bergen, the pride and joy of her father, Edgar Bergen, who shortly will make her debut on Edgar's radio program, Candy is a ventriloquist, believe it or not, and talks to an imaginary character named Joe, who lives in the cellar.

The whole show will be taped at 20th, and Mrs. Bergen, who is playing a role in "Nearer My God To Thee" will be part of it, too. Edgar's calling it "Watching Mother Work." And, of course, Charlie McCarthy, who will probably be green with jealousy over Candy, will be in the traveling troupe.

A heartbreaking story is that of 17-year-old Jill Hollingsworth whose mother, Mrs. Beatrice Hollingsworth embezzled over $25,000 in Detroit so that Jill might have a Hollywood career. Tom Towers, who interviewed the young girl for the Los Angeles Examiner, told me he honestly believes Jill is an innocent victim.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Keep your eye on Beverly Michaels and Russell Rouse. They really care for each other. He's the brilliant young producer who co-produced "The Well" and "The Thief."

Aren't Bill Pine and Bill Thomas readying a film based on Jackie Coogan's life story?

Gigi Perreau has a new baby sister, born Thursday to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perreau, at Queen of Angels Hospital. The baby weighs eight pounds and hasn't yet been named.

Joseph Schenck with a party of guests, including Ellsworth Alford, Gail Selig, Ann Beck and this writer, dined at Romanoff's and then went on to see Joanne Gilbert at Mocambo. Joanne again received a great welcome. Jack Entrado, of New York's Copabana, was seated at the next table and expressed great interest in Joanne.

At Romanoff's, Dinah Shore and George Montgomery, who were dining with Leonard and Bob Goldstein, said they were not discussing a movie for her, nor George. Why not?

An excited Joan Crawford took off for Ft. Worth, where she's being given a testimonial dinner by her home state of Texas.

Margaret O'Brien and her mother are back from Japan, where Margaret made a picture. Pretty Maggie visited a number of military hospitals where she was named the new pin-up girl.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Pape Injured When Struck By Shifter

John Pape, about 55, of Eckhart, escaped serious injury Thursday when he was struck by a railroad shifter at the warehouse of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company in the rear of the 400-block of North Centre Street.

Pape was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital with a dislocated right wrist and sprained thumbs. Attaches last night said his condition was "good."

A company spokesman said Pape was working on the trestle at the company warehouse when an engine which was moving railroad cars ran into him and knocked him approximately 10 feet to the ground. The spokesman termed his escape from serious injury as "miraculous."

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Some Temperamental Difference

HOLLYWOOD — One of my favorite indoor pastimes is listening to actors complain. Like a soldier, an actor isn't really content unless he's griping about something. Lately the networks, NBC and CBS, have given the entertainers a marvelous new avenue for outcry—namely, their two huge new television studios.

The CBS structure, which cost $12,000,000, is three times the size of the NBC edifice, and therefore subject to lamentations three times as loud. It was designed by Charles Luckman and his partner, William L. Persira. Mr. Luckman was the former chief brain-truster of Lever Brothers, the soap empire.

His Television City, which is what CBS calls this thing, is a wonderfully impressive lump of masonry, the corridors stretching into what seems like infinity. It covers eight acres and somehow it manages to house only four studios, all of them tremendous. Among its many technical wonders are lighting switchboards which memorize — so help me Hannah — all the lighting instructions and then go ahead and perform them without further ado. The technicians view this monster with undisguised loathing, fearing that it may some day cost all of them their jobs.

The actors also take a dim view. The first actor I saw was lounging in the front row of one of the audience studios before the 107-foot stage. "Reminds you of a Soviet tire factory, doesn't it?" he remarked pleasantly. Actually, it does — but it won't when they get the carpets down and when the smell of paint dries.

Later, I encountered Marie Wilson, otherwise known as My Friend Irma, who — along with the new Freeway and Forest Lawn Cemetery — is one of the scenic wonders of southern California. (An absolute must for all tourists.) She was drifting down one of the endless corridors in search of the rest of her cast. Quite sensibly she was wearing sneakers, which helped some, but not much, to bridge the distances. "Next week, no legs!" she muttered. She trotted away and was soon lost to view, concealed by the curvature of the earth. Far more voluble in his dissipation is Richard Whorf, the enormously capable director of "My Friend Irma." "You and I could design something better than this with both arms broken," he observed.

The CBS operative who was showing me around took these protests lightly. "The talent was consulted about everything, even the closets. Still, they beef. You can't satisfy actors."

There is some truth but not the whole truth in this statement. Actually, there are irreconcilable differences in temperament and outlook between the actors who populate the TV stages and the engineers who designed the NBC Burbank studios, where the audience is all as it were — in the balcony and there is nothing equivalent to the orchestra seat, says: "This is what we should have done 10 years ago. We never could because the actors wanted the audience where they could kiss them." He paused a moment and then added a thought which typifies the difference between engineers and actors: "Of course, the audience is an awful nuisance to engineers. We spend much too much money on them."

The first thought that occurred to me looking at this balcony-type auditorium is that the comedian would have a hell of a time playing to an audience over his head without getting a crick in his neck. This suspicion was confirmed by Bob Hope who was one of the first entertainers to do a show from the new NBC studio.

middle of a joke and the man with the headphones walks right in front of you, making with the signs. How can a man tell a joke under conditions like that. These theaters were built for the comedians and the comedians hate them." (Not all of them. Jimmy Durante, who has an angelic disposition anyhow, told me he likes the new setup fine. But then, Durante plays straight to the cameras, not to the audience. He's for the guy at home.)

Just off Holland - A lovely location, 2 dandy lots attractively landscaped and improved by 2 room dwelling with colorful metal awnings create real eye appeal.

This home has 4 rooms, bath, roomy den, utility room, garage and built in gas-fired furnace.

The living room is most attractive as it is bedroom, bath, and the modern kitchen. There is an objectionable feature - a den, utility room and garage are on the first floor; the approach to this lovely apartment above is through the kitchen but someone is not going to object to this too much and thus possess a home in beautiful and most charming surroundings. Price $10,000.

Police Change Made By Long

Two changes will be effective in the Detective Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department this morning.

John J. Long police and fire commissioner stated according to plans made earlier E. M. Powell who has been detective on the second platoon will be transferred to the first platoon as a patrolman.

Roy C. Hawse who has been in training as a detective on the first platoon will be assigned to Powell's position on the second platoon.

Go on in training as a detective under Lt. James E. Van head of the Detective Bureau will be Officer Leo E. P. Law.

The commissioner said the moves were made after conferring with Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn.

The plans had been made prior to August 29 when Det. Powell was transferred to patrolman. After a dispute was raised by the policeman's grievance committee contending Powell's transfer was a demotion, the Civil Service Board was asked to make a ruling.

Under the ruling handed down this week, the Powell move was judged a transfer and not a demotion. The commissioner said he then decided to go ahead with plans made before the dispute.

The object of the training program is to have a detective assigned to each platoon with Lt. Van in charge, the commissioner concluded.

Brothers Will Conduct Youth For Christ Meet
Theron and Thurlow Spurr, who have been conducting services nightly at Eckhart Baptist Church, will conduct the Youth for Christ meet today at 8 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, North Mechanic Street.

The program will consist of gospel music and vocal and trumpet duets. James Martin, Lancaster, Pa., will be the pianist.

Wiley Ford School Has Halloween Parade
A Halloween parade and party was held at the Wiley Ford elementary school, yesterday. Mrs. Dorothy Batdorf, Charles Fryer and Glenwood Reed judged the costumes.

Carolyn Ann Engle, Burney Sherman, Sandra Boone were judged the most original; Nancy Manning, Jeanne McGinn, Jean Monahan, the prettiest; Sandra Cross, James Abe and Roger Taylor, the funniest costumes.

Each child received a prize and pre school children, who attended the parade, also were given prizes.

Following the parade the children had a party in the home rooms. The gifts, prizes and parade were sponsored by the Wiley Ford PTA.

Entertains Children
The Teenage class of First Christian Church entertained the members and their children at a Halloween party, recently in the church basement. Decorations were in keeping with the season and games were played. Prizes were awarded for the prettiest, most unusual and most original costumes.

Miss Etta Hemrick was in charge of the recreation. The committee consisted of Miss Joy Ann Jackson, Miss Doris Jean Powers, Miss Joann Sacks, Miss Frances Northcraft and Mrs. Otis Bennett.

A large group attended.

FULBRIGHT PINCH HITS—Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas pinch hit for Governor Adlai E. Stevenson when the campaign special of the Democratic candidate pulled into Queen City Station yesterday morning without him. Fulbright is shown speaking from the rear platform while part of his attentive audience looks on. He called Stevenson well qualified to serve as President of the United States.

MUMMERS PARADE—Over 6,000 persons on hand last night to see several hundred youngsters and oldsters take part in the annual Mummies Parade, sponsored by South End Business Men on Virginia Avenue. Shown here are some of the costumes seen in the revue.

Fulbright Says Adlai Is Qualified

Arkansan Fills In For Candidate

Early-rising Allegany County Democrats were disappointed in not seeing Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the party's candidate for President, when his 13-car campaign special pulled into Queen City Station shortly before 7 a. m. yesterday, but they heard him recommended as a man properly prepared to fill the highest elective office in the land.

The recommendation came from Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, who had been traveling on the campaign train with the Democratic standard-bearer. Senator Fulbright substituted for Gov. Stevenson, when the Illinois chief executive interrupted his campaigning to fly back to his home state from Pittsburgh to settle a prison riot.

The crowd on hand to greet the campaign special was estimated by police as upwards of 1,500. While there they drank 40 gallons of hot coffee and consumed 1,992 doughnuts served by the United Democratic Women's Club of Allegany County.

If the spectators looked for a "Give 'Em Hell" speech of the type of President Harry S. Truman they were disappointed. The scholarly Senator from the Ozarks, onetime Rhodes Scholar and later president of the University of Arkansas, sounded more like a history professor lecturing his class as he discussed some of America's former presidents. Incidentally, Fulbright has been rumored as likely to succeed Dean Acheson as Secretary of State should Stevenson be elected.

Fulbright said he believes both Gov. Stevenson and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, his Republican rival, are men of good character and complete honor.

"But a professional military man has very little knowledge about civilian life. That is no reflection on him. He knows little about labor legislation, price control and other problems."

Then, Fulbright took his listeners on a tour through American history. His objective was to prove that former Governors make better Presidents than do former Generals.

Great Presidents

As former Governor who moved up to the White House and became great Presidents, Fulbright singled out Thomas Jefferson, James Knox Polk, Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson and both Theodore and Franklin D. Roosevelt. In contrast he singled the administrations of Zachary Taylor and Ulysses S. Grant, whom he described as the only two Presidents who had been professional military men. They were not good Presidents.

Fulbright also made no mention whatsoever of the Truman administration in his remarks. The Arkansas Senator gained committee prominence last year in his work as chairman of a Senate committee which uncovered most of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation scandals.

Aside from Fulbright's speech, the program during yesterday's whistle-stop here was primarily a women's affair. William L. Wilson, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee, introduced Mrs. Stella B. Werner as "our next Congresswoman."

Mrs. Werner said she thought Gov. Stevenson had only done his duty in returning to Illinois yesterday. She said the party could not possibly have picked a better man. She introduced Senator Fulbright.

After Senator Fulbright's talk, he presented three other prominent women. They were Mrs. Ernest Ives, Gov. Stevenson's sister Mrs. India Edwards, vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Mrs. Edison Dick of Chicago, a "reformed Republican who heads the Volunteers for Stevenson."

Miss Kay Long, Hampshire County, W. Va., apple queen, presented Mrs. Ives a box of Hampshire County apples. Mrs. Ives was happily munching one of the apples as the train pulled off for Martinsburg, W. Va.

Amcelle Honors Cresaptown Man

Martin C. Johnson, Cresaptown, completed a quarter century of service at Amcelle yesterday and was presented a gold wrist watch and a gold five-star Celanese service emblem.

Johnson is the day foreman in the Preparation Department with supervisory duties in other spinning auxiliaries.

He is married and the father of a girl and boy.

His outside interests are largely connected with church work and working with children. He is superintendent of the adult division of the Cresaptown Methodist Church and lay leader of the Rawlings charge.

Recently he was elected secretary of the Cresaptown Improvement Association. For some time he has been an active member of the Troop Committee in charge of outdoor activities for Cresaptown Boy Scout Troop No. 9.

He is the son-in-law of Rev. William A. Judy, Cresaptown, who retired several months ago from Celanese after almost 28 years of service. Both worked in the same department.

$1,866 Budget For Conservation Gains Approval

Nine New Farm Plans Adopted

A budget calling for expenditure of $1,866 in the current fiscal year was adopted Thursday at a meeting of the Allegany County District Soil Conservation Supervisors at the office of County Agent Ralph H. McHenry.

The supervisors plan to spend $300 for new trees which they hope to obtain from the Maryland State Department of Forests and Parks. If they can not be purchased in this state, they will contact nurseries in Pennsylvania.

Edward M. Davis, state conservationist for the United States Soil Conservation Service, attended the meeting. He is here reviewing work that has been done, especially flood control projects such as tree planting and sub-soiling.

At the meeting, it was reported that Soil Conservationists Martin Gordon and Stuart Delbrook have approved nine new soil conservation plans involving 1,065 acres of Allegany County land in the past month. Plans were approved on the farms of A. A. Layman, Union Grove; Newton Robey, Spring Gap; George A. Stafford, Mexico Farms; Gary Teter, Flintstone; D. C. Gainer, Mexico Farms; Sam Stickley, Mexico Farms; J. J. Johnson, Mexico Farms; Potomac Highland Orchard, Paw Paw, and John B. Wentling, Union Grove.

The conservationists also seeded the Post Playground and part of the West Side School yard. Also installed in the past month were 1,800 feet of tile ditches, 500 feet of diversion ditches, 35 acres of contour strip cropping and a half-acre pond on the farm of A. E. Windish, Union Grove. During the month the conservationists also made 84 contacts with county farmers.

Attending the meeting were all five of the supervisors, R. W. Ferguson, chairman; Ernest Slider, Dale Mann, Wilbert Paul and Charles Harvey.

Judge J. P. Egan Dies In Hospital At Pittsburgh

Word has been received by Mrs. James F. Shryock, Frostburg, of the death of her uncle, Judge John P. Egan, 64, of the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County, Pittsburgh on Thursday in Mercy Hospital there. He died of a heart attack.

A native of Frostburg, he was born, July 6, 1888, a son of the late Peter and Margaret Brennan Egan. Judge Egan was a nephew of the late Rev. Michael J. Brennan, former pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Cumberland, and Rural Dean of Western Maryland.

He was graduated from Duquesne University in 1911 and from its law school in 1913. During World War I, he served overseas and was a 1st lieutenant in the Army Ordnance Corps.

On October 3, 1929 he was named Dean of the Law School at Duquesne, which post he held until 1931, when he was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Common Pleas bench by the late Gov. John S. Fisher. He was elected to a ten-year term in 1931 and re-elected in 1941 and 1951.

Judge Egan was an outstanding collegiate football official, having refereed Rose Bowl games of 1928 and 1930. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucille M. Murray Egan and the following children, John P. Egan, Jr., Pittsburgh; James Murray Egan, at home; Lt. Robert Egan, Fort Sill, Okla.; Mrs. Gerald Fleming, Harrisburg, Pa. and Miss Suzanne Egan, at home; and one grandchild.

Mrs. William Kerber, here, and Mrs. James F. Kenny, Frostburg, are first cousins of Judge Egan. Mr. and Mrs. Shryock will attend the requiem mass which will be celebrated at 10:30 a. m. Monday in St. Paul's Cathedral, Pittsburgh.

Judge Egan was a member of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, Allegheny County Bar Association, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Knights of Columbus.

Carver Students Hear Getty Talk

James Getty, of the Social Security office here, explained the Social Security program to the Junior-Senior Home Economics Class at Carver High School Thursday.

This class is studying a unit in family relationship and at present is discussing family finances and income. Getty outlined the new changes in the program and the types of occupations it now covers.

Two films were shown to explain procedure in securing Social Security cards, old age benefits, how records are kept of contributions, the role of the employer and how families can benefit when the wage-earner or head of the family dies.

A question and answer period enabled class members to clear up many wrong impressions about Social Security. Each student was given a booklet which further explained the Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance.

Union Asks Changes In Civil Service

7 Point Program Is Sent To Board

Seven changes in a proposed new Civil Service Law for this city have been suggested by Local 812, Municipal Workers Union (AFL).

The program, which has been forwarded to the Cumberland Civil Service Commission should include one commissioner from the business or professional field, one from industrial management and one with experience in organized labor.

Commissioners should serve six year terms and not be eligible for reappointment or two years after their terms expire.

Want Notice Given

A notice of all proposed new rules or amendments to existing rules of the commission or city department should be posted on department bulletin boards at least 10 days prior to public hearing on the change. The commission would not be bound by employee suggestions but should give appropriate attention to reasonable suggestions.

The Mayor and Council should be required to find substantial cause before any commissioner could be removed from office, and such removal could be appealed to the Circuit Court.

The Commission should have power to investigate all matters, procedures and orders of any administrative officer touching the execution of the Civil Service Law.

Posting Of Vacancies

In all departments except Police and Fire, vacancies should be posted on employee bulletin boards to permit workers interested in the vacancy to sign up. Men with greatest seniority should be given a chance to familiarize themselves with the work and, following a probationary period, be entitled to a permanent rating after passing an examination, if the test is required.

An employee who fails to qualify after promotion to a higher position should be allowed to resume his former position.

Weather

A heavy pall of smoke from area forest fires cast its gloom over this city yesterday and spoiled what otherwise would have been a nippy but nearly perfect fall day. The official weather station at Constitution Park reported a high temperature of 69 and a low of 40. The thermometer was 62 at 8 p. m. The air was exceptionally dry, with humidity at an extreme low of 17 per cent at 6 p. m. Fairly mild — and smokey — weather is slated today.

First Brethren Parsonage To Be Dedicated

Dedicatory services for the parsonage of the First Brethren Church 400 Race Street, will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.

It is the residence of the minister, Milton M. Robinson, his wife and two children. The speaker at this service is Rev. E. L. Miller, president of the Southeastern District Mission Board of the Brethren Church.

Preceding the dedication of the parsonage, a fellowship luncheon will be served in the basement of the church. The meal will immediately follow the morning worship service, at which Rev. Claud Studebaker, D. D. will be the speaker.

Rev. E. L. Miller, the speaker of the afternoon, is well-known to the local Brethren. He was instrumental in founding the church. He also has aided considerably in the purchase of the parsonage. He has been active in the leadership of the affairs of the Southeast District of the Brethren Church for several years. He has also held several denominational offices.

The purchase of a parsonage by the First Brethren Church is the culmination of several years work and effort. The house was originally built by Ira Deneen. He resided there for many years. The Brethren Church bought this house from his estate last year. Since then, they have been remodeling and decorating it inside and out. A basement was enlarged and a furnace installed. Stormdoors have been added and many other improvements made.

Several local people aided in this work. They are: Frank Schriver, Francis Schriver, Delma Schriver, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Beachley, Mrs. David Smith, Mr. and Mrs. William Baldwin, Homer Grove, Eugene Abbe, Harry Neill, Joseph Shepherd, John Holliday, Ira Borden, Mrs. Vergie Greenawald, Russell Bennett, Arthur Bland, Forest Morris, Jr., Robert Sowers, Harold Leeger, Mrs. Willard Rawlings, Rose Wigfield and others.

Six Acres Burned Near Sunnyside

District Forester William H. Johnson said last night that about six acres of woodland were burned at Sunnyside, near Barrellville, yesterday afternoon.

In another fire reported in Western Maryland yesterday, one-twentieth of an acre was burned off Westernport Hill in a fire blamed on a careless smoker who tossed a burning cigarette out of his car.

6,000 People Watch Mummies In South End

Ghosts And Goblins Take Part In Parade

Some 6,000 spectators lined Virginia Avenue last night to watch the Halloween parade sponsored by the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association and then joined in the after-parade festivities.

Mummers turned out in all kinds of attire — alarm clocks reminding "It's time to vote," can-can dancers, clowns, Bowery bums, patriots, blackface comics and the usual spooks, goblins, ghouls and witches. There were roughly 300 mummers for the judges to choose from.

Toonerville Band Wins

First prize of $30 for musical units in the four-division parade went to the Cumberland Moose Toonerville Band, with Fort Hill High School Band copping second prize of $20, and the drum corps of Fulton-Myers American Legion Post taking third honors of $10.

The $25 first prize for floats was awarded to a bride and groom design which featured Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Berkman, 16 Grand Avenue, and their three grandsons, Dennis Kahn Ocheltree as the flower girl, Bradford Deetz as the bride and Dennis Deetz as the bridegroom.

Second prize for floats, a $15 award, went to the Light and Decker entry.

Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company won first prize, a chair from the Millenson Furniture Company, in the fire company division. LaVale firemen were second, winning a floor lamp from the Kline Furniture Company, and Short Gap firemen took third prize, a blanket from Garrett's store.

Store Windows Judged

Shortly before the parade got underway, judges toured the parade route to determine which merchants were to receive prizes for window decorations.

First prize in that category went to Pooter's Dry Cleaning establishment, and second place was awarded for the show window of C. Glenn Watson's real estate and insurance office.

After the parade there was square dancing, movies and a talent show.

Essay Contest Outlined For County Students

County chairmen of the Promote the Employment of the Physically Handicapped program yesterday outlined plans for the annual essay contest which begins today.

J. Leo Delaney, county supervisor of the Vocational Rehabilitation Division, and Francis A. Kenney, manager of the Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security, are co-chairmen of the project here.

Kenney and Delaney will contact county schools next week and furnish complete information on the essay and see if enough material is available for the event.

11-12 Grade Students

The contest, which is open to 11th and 12th grade students in all public, private and parochial high schools in the state, begins today and ends January 15, 1953.

Essays should be a maximum of 1,200 words and take as their theme, "The Physically Handicapped, A National Asset."

Prizes in the state contest will total $250 in Saving Bonds with first through fourth prize winners receiving $100, $75, $50 and $25 bonds respectively.

The first prize winner will also be eligible for the National $1,000 award or any of the subsequent prizes which range from $400 through $100.

All four state winners will also receive certificates of merit from the President of the United States.

Rules Sent Out

The state contest has been approved by the National Association of Secondary Schools. Rules for the 1953 competition are being sent to all high schools, together with background material on the importance of using the abilities of all available American men and women to strengthen national security.

Additional information is available at the Cumberland Public Library, the local office of the Department of Employment Security, second floor of the Footer Building, South Mechanic Street; and the local Vocational Rehabilitation office, second floor of the Union Street County Building.

Essays must be forwarded by teachers of English to the Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of the Physically Handicapped, 6 North Liberty Street, Baltimore 1, Md., before midnight January 15, 1953.

The 1951 state winner was a Lonaconing girl, Miss Margaret Ann Diller, a senior at Central High School. Miss Diller also placed fifth in the National contest.

Bonds Delivered To Local Bank

The City of Cumberland yesterday completed delivery of $90,000 of Street and Sewer bonds to the Second National Bank.

The bonds, which will finance the Bedford Street sewerage ejector station and related projects, were purchased by the local bank August 25. The issue bears 2 1/4 per cent interest and will yield 2 3/4 per cent interest, due to a premium of 1 1/2.

Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson completed delivery of the bonds.

Forest Fire Threatens New Creek

New Blazes Reported In West Virginia

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—AP—The U. S. Forest Service warned today the forest fire danger is the greatest in the nation's history because of extremely dry weather.

Chief Forester Richard E. McArdle issued a special appeal to persons using the woods this weekend to be especially careful with matches, cigarettes and campfires.

The situation is likely to become worse, the service said, because there is no prospect of an early change in the weather.

Firemen and volunteers fought yesterday to save the village of New Creek, near Keyser, from a raging forest fire, thought to be the work of an arsonist.

With abating winds in their favor, furiously digging crews have constructed fire breaks around the threatened areas.

The fire last night was ravaging an area estimated at 2,000 acres by newsmen.

Arson Indicated

District Forester Lester McClung from Romney, W. Va., said he could give no estimate of the extent of the fire, but added there was evidence to indicate the fire had been set deliberately.

The base of the big blaze is about one mile long.

Fire breaks, cut around the property of Marvin Whetzel, Herschel Weaver and a family identified only as the Burns family apparently will prevent property loss in the valley.

The fire also appears to be bypassing the village of New Creek where another fire break had been cut between a portion of the village and the valley. There are about three dozen families in the village.

Soak Fire Breaks

A tank truck from the McCoolle fire department has seen heavy service in the area with firemen and volunteers soaking the fire breaks and threatened areas.

Other fires are burning on the western slope of the Allegheny Front between Shaw and Blaine, W. Va., between Springfield and Ft. Ashby, W. Va., and three new ones have been reported on the Goshen Mountains in Pendleton County.

The Keyser volunteer fire department has been reinforced by about 60 students and teachers from Potomac State School, about 25 older boys from Keyser High School and a number of townspeople and others to bring the total fighting force to between 150 and 200.

Smoke Is Heavy

David Gilpin, district game manager at Romney and Arley Cosner, forest patrolman, are helping to organize the control measures.

At Romney, smoke was reported to be so heavy that residents are suffering difficulties in breathing, and an airplane was unable to leave the ground to conduct a survey because of poor visibility.

The smoke drifted as far away as this city, about 20 miles to the north. William H. Johnson, district forester, said all previously reported fires in Maryland are under control.

A volunteer fireman from nearby West Virginia fought for several hours last night to control a forest fire which broke out near the intersection of Route 28 and Dixie Road.

The Ridgeley and Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Companies were among the units which fought the stubborn blaze within sight of the Municipal Airport.

Dedication Set For New School At Mt. Savage

The dedicatory program for the new Mt. Savage School, scheduled for 8 p. m. next Wednesday, is almost completed. School Superintendent Ralph R. Webster said yesterday.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools, will deliver the dedicatory address.

After the invocation by Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, a student will present the salute to the flag. Then, the audience will sing the National Anthem, directed by Jack Platt, supervisor of music education, with Miss Marilyn A. Baugh, Mt. Savage music teacher, as accompanist.

Keys to the building will be presented to Alfred H. Benna, principal, by Kenneth R. Malcom, president of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Then, choral groups from the school will offer a number of musical selections in a prelude to Dr. Pullen's speech. After the address, Webster will introduce the various guests on the platform.

Audience singing of "America The Beautiful," and the benediction will wind up the evening's program.

After the program, guests will be conducted on a tour through the elaborate new building. All teachers will be in their rooms while the tour is in progress. Students will act as guides.
